J. T. KING INDICTED ON PERJURY CHARGE; TAX FRAUD ALLEGED

Concealed German Bonus for Alien Property Deal, It Is Held.

EVERY CENT PAID U. S., ASSERTS W. E. LEAHY

Washington Lawyer Says the Former Committeeman Remedied Oversight.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, April 2.—John T. King, former Republican leader of Connecticut and for 25 years a power in politics as Republican national committeeman from that State, was indicted today on charges of perjury in his income tax return for 1921 by the special Federal grand jury, which has been investigating the turning over, in 1921, of securities of the American Metals Co. valued at $7,000,000, under the administration of former Alien Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller to a Swiss corporation, alleged to be owned by Germans.

Miller was indicted, together with others, by another Federal jury on October 30, 1925, for their part in that transaction, but King, who was one of the alleged beneficiaries in the emolument said to have been paid by the Swiss corporation to Miller and the others concerned, escaped indictment by turning State's evidence.

Charges $40,000 Fraud.

Today's indictment charges that in his income tax return for 1921 King defrauded the government of more than $40,000 which he should have paid on his actual income and on his share of the $441,000 paid to Miller and the other alleged conspirators by or in behalf of Richard Merton, of Berlin and Frankfort-on-Main, representing Germans who own the Societie Suisse Pour Valeur de Metaux, the company to which the American Metals securities were transformed.

According to the indictment, King's income tax return for 1921 showed that in that year he had a net income of $266.15 and was under no obligations to pay any tax. The testimony before the grand jury, however, revealed that in 1921 King received part of $391,000 and of $50,000 paid for the transfer of the American Metal securities. Asserting that King's income for 1921 was $137,266.15 and that his gross income was $196,549.15 the indictment charges that King defrauded the government of a tax in excess of $40,000. The maximum penalty provided for this offense is five years imprisonment and $2,000 fine.

Hearing Set for April 12.

King, who appeared in court accompanied by his attorney, William E. Leahy, of Washington, was arraigned before Judge Knox, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,500 bail for trial. The case was put on the calendar for Monday, April 12. A surety company put up the necessary bond for King.

Assistant United States Attorney Simpson, who has been in charge of the American Metals Co. investigation, asked that bail be fixed at a

Fair, Chilly Weather Is Easter Forecast

Fur coats probably will accompany spring hats Easter morning, according to the weather bureau.

"Probably fair, but chilly" is the official verdict of forecasters, who indicated that light spring dresses might not be comfortable to those taking part in the Easter parade. Sartorial finery, however, will be in order, provided it is of such a nature as to resist biting northwest winds.

40,000 Easter Visitors Expected in Capital

More than 40,000 visitors are expected to arrive in Washington over the week-end for the Easter holidays, according to officials of the Better Business Bureau.

According to railroad officials, 20,000 persons will arrive in the National Capital from points far North, South and West within the next few days. Reports from other cities also indicate that thousands of persons will flock to the National Capital by automobile. According to Better Business Bureau officials, Washington should expect its largest Easter gathering of visitors this year.

President Names Thompson To Investigate Philippines

Political and Economic Survey Ordered After Five Years of Agitation—War Secretary to Visit Islands.

Appointee Declares Inquiry Will Be Friendly Toward Gen. Wood, Who Is His Intimate Friend.

CARMI THOMPSON.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

The Philippine problem—carefully shrouded in mystery for the last eighteen months—suddenly and without warning was yesterday catapulted into the maelstrom of active politics. The developments were speedy. They included:

First—Early in the day the announcement from the White House that Col. Carmi Thompson, of Ohio, potential candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, had been named by the President to make an "investigation and survey" of the conditions in the islands now seething with movements to compel recognition of their right to independence.

Second—The statement by Col. Thompson, closest friend of Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, that he had accepted the post and would not be able to run in the August primaries of the Buckeye State Republican organization.

Third—The statement by Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis that he anticipated personally making an investigation of the conditions in the islands after the "good weather" season begins next autumn.

Fourth—The statement by the White House spokesman that the GIRLS, ARMED, AWAIT RETURN OF "APE MAN"

"Wild" Creature Said to Be Man Who Wants to Buy Connecticut Land.

WOULD FRIGHTEN THEM

Providence, R. I., April 2 (By A. P.).—An "ape man," reported to be frightening residents of North Stonington, Conn., is merely a prospective purchaser of a farm, wearing a fur coat, and endeavoring by his antics to frighten away two orphaned sisters, who inherited the farm he seeks. This was the report made tonight by George Denison, game warden, after a day's search for the "ape man" on the Horace D. Miner farm.

"If that fellow goes out there again with the skin of an animal over his head," said Denison, "they are going to put the lead to him. I wouldn't want to try it again if I were he."

Denison said he had found no trace of the man today, however.

The Miner girls, Muriel, aged 19, and Mildred, 16, inherited the farm from their father, who died recently. Denison said they are armed and ready to shoot, and other residents of the neighborhood also have their shotguns at hand and will brook no ape-man real estate tactics in the vicinity in the future.

The man creature has succeeded in frightening away Frank Miller, farm hand on the Miner place despite the stoical attitude of his youthful employers. "You won't catch me going back there," said Miller.

British Troops Repel Syrian-Arab Attack

Bagdad, Irak, April 2 (By A. P.). British armored cars and airplanes used as reinforcements for Irak detachments guarding the Irak-Syrian frontier participated in a skirmish today against 2,000 Syrian and Arab tribesmen who attacked the Irak troops. The tribesmen fled in disorder, leaving 45 dead and carrying away many wounded.

British officers restrained the Irak troops from pursuing the enemy across the frontier.

Smoking at "Exams" In University Ended

Berkeley, Calif., April 2 (By A. P.).—Male students at the University of California, who found solace by smoking during strenuous final examinations, today were deprived of the relief in an order issued by Fred Byers, head of the students' welfare council. Byers said co-eds had complained that smoking during the examinations irritated them and made it impossible to concentrate.

Bloom Asked to Act As Czar of Theaters

(By the Associated Press.)

Representative Bloom, Democrat, New York, said yesterday that he had been asked by a group of theater owners and producers to assume the role of high commissioner in the theatrical profession. His duties would be to settle disputes arising among managers, playwrights and players.

Bloom has been identified with the stage all his life, being a theater owner and builder. He took part in his first play at the age of 8.

MEDICINAL WINE BACK ON ANDREWS' PERMITS

Dry Chief Says It Will Make One Sick if Taken for Intoxication.

FORMERLY ON MARKET

Medicinal wine is back on the open market.

Two permits have recently been issued by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews for the manufacture of this product, it was announced yesterday.

Treasury Department officials would not disclose the names of the recipients of the permits nor the percentage of alcohol contained in the product. It was said, however, that the wine is of an old standard and had been in use in pre-prohibition days, but for medicinal purposes only.

General Andrews' only comment, when asked whether a person could get an honest-to-goodness "jag" from imbibing the product, declared: "The purpose of issuing these permits was to place the wine on the market purely for medicinal purposes, but I have been told that people are even drinking canned heat for its alcoholic contents, and would not be surprised if they tried this product."

He made it plain, however, that a person seeking to get intoxicated from the product would probably be as sick as some one drinking canned "fire."

Spanish War Pensions Favored by Coolidge

(By the Associated Press.)

President Coolidge feels that Spanish war veterans are entitled to pensions comparable to those accorded soldiers of other conflicts, but he views as excessive the annual outlay contemplated in a bill sponsored by the Spanish War Veterans association.

The measure, which places the annual cost at $10,000,000 to $16,000,000, is expected to be introduced in the House soon.

PONZI FOUND GUILTY BY JURY IN FLORIDA

Violation of Law in Operation of Land Syndicate Was Charged by State.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 2 (By A. P.).—Charles Ponzi, charged with violating the State statutes regulating the operation of trusts, was found guilty late today by a jury in the Duval court of criminal records.

The verdict carries a sentence of two years in the State prison or a fine of $1,500. Frank Brennan, counsel for the defense, filed notice of appeal for new trial.

The specific charge against Ponzi was failure to file with the secretary of state a copy of the declaration of trust under which he was alleged to have operated the Charpon Land Syndicate, and for selling certificates of indebtedness without permission from the attorney general and the comptroller.

Ponzi was indicted jointly with his wife, Rose Marie, Caicedonia Alvitti and his wife, Emma, all partners in the syndicate. It was agreed that they be tried separately.

RETIREMENT BILL MODIFIED TO MEET WISH OF COOLIDGE

Age Limits Are Advanced; Annuities Probably Much Lower.

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ON MEASURE STATED

Action by House Committee Held Indication of Passage This Session.

A modified government employes' retirement bill designed to meet the President's wishes was agreed upon yesterday by the House civil service committee. The committee's action is believed to make certain that the legislation will be considered by the House at this session.

The committee will report the bill either Monday or Tuesday and in the meantime strict secrecy as to its provisions was maintained.

It was learned, however, that the age limits have been materially advanced and there are strong indications that the proposed increased annuities have been lowered.

The bill agreed upon provides that railway mail clerks may retire at the age of 60 years, carriers and mechanics at 62 and the general clerical employes at 65. These are optional retirement ages and are but slightly lower than the compulsory retirement ages of 62, 65 and 70 years in the existing law.

Maximum Was $1,200.

All of the retirement bills considered by the committee, sponsored by Chairman Lehlbach, of New Jersey, Hudson, of Michigan, and Garber, of Oklahoma, while differing in many respects, provided for a maximum annuity of $1,200, as compared with $720 at present.

In an effort, however, to meet the wishes of the President, the bill now agreed upon is understood to carry an appreciable increase over present annuities, but lower than the proposed maximum.

Figures submitted by the government actuaries based on a maximum annuity of $1,200 and retirement at 60 years, placed the lowest cost to the government at approximately $35,000,000 annually, an increase of approximately $17,000,000 beyond the present cost. The modified bill with advanced retirement ages and reduced annuity will, however, materially lower the additional cost.

Views of the President.

At the White House yesterday the President was represented definitely as being opposed to a $1,200 maximum annuity and optional retirement at 60 years, in view of the additional cost which it would impose upon the government. He was said to believe that the age

POLICE HUNT PEARLS VALUED AT $30,000

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook's Necklace Either Lost or Stolen, She Says.

Baffled by the mysterious disappearance last Tuesday of a string of 105 matched pearls owned by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general of the D. A. R., police with the knowledge that the jewels are worth more than $30,000 are continuing their search with undiminished vigor.

Mrs. Cook reported her loss to police Tuesday. She told them at the time that while it was quite possible that she may have lost them while riding from the Wardman Park hotel to Continental Memorial hall and from there to Thomas circle, although she strongly suspected that they were stolen from a bureau in her room.

Believing that the jewels might have fallen into unscrupulous hands, police announced that the gems had been lost and were valued at only $1,500.

Man Flees "Cheeps" Of 1,000 Baby Chicks

Sand Point, Idaho, April 2 (By A. P.).—George Sanders, 67, a Lightning Creek rancher, has disappeared and neighbors are looking after his thousand baby chicks and awaiting a consignment of another thousand.

Sanders left a note saying the incessant "cheep" of the infant poultry was threatening him with insanity. The prospect of another thousand was too much, and he asked his neighbors to see that they were fed.

PRESIDENT WANTS COURT NEGOTIATIONS FREE FROM LEAGUE

Holds Protocol None of Its Business; To Send No Representative.

WILL DEAL WITH 48 NATIONS DIRECTLY

Swanson Calls Coolidge Negotiator; Says Responsibility Will Be His.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Coolidge wants the League of Nations to keep its hands off the prospective negotiations between the United States and other powers relative to American adherence to the world court protocol with the Swanson reservations.

This was clearly indicated by the White House spokesman yesterday afternoon coincident with a statement that the President sees no reason for America's accepting the league's invitation to send a representative to Geneva on September 1 to discuss the reservations with the 48 signatory states.

The league has nothing to do with it and cannot do anything with it if it wants to, according to the White House spokesman. America's attitude will be that it will deal with the 48 signatory states directly and not deal with them through any other channel.

Courtesy Is Appreciated.

The President, it is explained, appreciates the courtesy of the league in inviting the United States to participate in the Geneva conference where the reservations will be discussed. But he sees no need for America to have a representative there.

Diplomats and senators, including Senator Swanson, author of the reservations, and Senator Borah, chariman of the foreign relations committee, do not all agree with the President's conception of the position the United States should now take in view of the unusual circumstances. Judging from this comment, the American acceptance of the protocol with reservations, bids fair to provide another embarrassing cause of friction between America and foreign nations, unless or until some solution is reached as to whether the United States will change the reservations to suit requirements which a majority of the league members regard apparently as essential to permit American adherence.

Direct Issue Raised.

The fact that the League of Nations, after virtually taking charge of the question of American adherence, has asked each separate signatory state not to negotiate direct with America has admittedly raised a direct issue. President Coolidge wants to negotiate directly with each of the 48 States. The league wants the 48 States to decline to negotiate directly with America. Either the President or the league must yield on this point of direct conflict, according to the diplomats.

It develops that the league's action is based on advices from several of the signatory states that the American reservations can not possibly be accepted in their present form, and that the only chance for American adherence now lies in a conference which would, perhaps,

20 KILLED, 150 HURT IN RIOT AT CALCUTTA

Moslems Attempt to Block Procession of Hindus; Fight Breaks Out.

London, April 2 (By A. P.).—A furious fight took place in Calcutta, India, today between a Hindu sect and Moslems, and, according to one estimate, 20 persons were killed and 150 injured.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph says that the riot began with the approach to a mosque in the northern part of the city of a procession with music led by the Arya Samaj sect of Hindus, enemies of the Moslems. Fighting developed when the Moslems tried to bar the way, the trouble soon spreading to other streets.

Deputy Police Commissioner Bartley, and another European, Sergt. Davis, who went to the commissioner's assistance, were slightly hurt.

HESSE ORDERS INQUIRY OF ARREST INCREASES

District Officials Startled at Record of 27,689 in First Quarter of Year.

MAJORITY AUTO DRIVERS

District officials are concerned over the large and constantly increasing number of arrests in the Capital City. Plans are in preparation for conferences on the subject.

"Obviously there is something wrong," said one of the commissioners yesterday, when reports were made public that 11,275 arrests had been made in March, which, added to 16,414 for January and February, made 27,689 for the first quarter of the current calendar year.

"If it keeps up at that rate," he continued, "there will be more than 110,000 arrests in the year, or nearly one-fourth of the population. It is clear that Washington has not suddenly turned lawless. It is not within reason to suppose that one-fourth of its citizens have deserved to run afoul of the police and the courts. Some effort will have to be made to ascertain where the fault lies."

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, was equally chagrined. He is having a survey made of the situation covering both the large number of arrests and the consequent crowding of police court dockets. He ordered the probe begun when the February police report showed so many arrests.

He is formulating proposals, based in part on fastening responsibility upon commanding officers and giving them some leeway in dealing with first offenders against minor regulations, especially when the result of ignorance of rules or thoughtlessness.

Of the 11,275 March arrests, 6,911, or 61 per cent, were for violations of the 30-page traffic code. Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge said that he wanted many of the minor traffic arrests eliminated by giving motorists warning cards, not arresting them, but chalking up the violations against them on their records in the traffic bureau, particularly in cases concerning lights, defective equipment and parking.

Mr. Eldridge also expressed concern over the operators' permit situation. He sent a letter to Maj. Hesse suggesting that arrests be made of persons driving who do not hold the invalid permits that expired Wednesday by act of Congress and further advising he be supplied with lists of persons so arrested so that, if not penalized by the courts, he can refuse to issue permits to them should they apply later.

Actor Killed by Blast In Filming a Picture

San Diego, Calif., April 2 (By A. P.).—Paul Humphrey, 28, actor and head of the Humphrey-Gunn Motion Picture Co., of this city, was killed by a premature explosion while engaged in filming a picture off the Coronado shore this afternoon. Several other members of the company suffered minor injuries.

Humphrey and other members of the company were on a raft about half a mile from shore. A quantity of powder that was to be used later to blow up the raft, in some manner became ignited and exploded. Humphrey received the full force of the explosion, which hurled him high into the air.

BILL GIVES POLICE FULL ENFORCEMENT POWER IN DRY LAW

Legislation Prepared by Andrews Is Placed Before Senate.

HAS ADMINISTRATION LEADERS' APPROVAL

8 Amendments to Make Law Effective Included; Heavier Penalties Provided.

The granting to Washington police of full power to carry out the enforcement provisions of the national prohibition act is one of the eight sweeping amendments included in a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Goff, of West Virginia, as part of the administration's plan to make prohibition enforcement more effective.

The bill, prepared by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews and understood to have the approval of the President and his leaders in both houses of Congress, was submitted for legislative action after a thorough study by prohibition officials as to the amendments to the dry act necessary to make enforcement possible.

Under the new bill local police officers will be permitted to act as enforcement officers without having first been clothed with Federal jurisdiction.

"At the present time," Gen. Andrews declared, "the national prohibition act is the only dry law for the District of Columbia. The present bill," Gen. Andrews said in his letter accompanying the bill to Congress, "will be most helpful to the situation in Washington."

Could Arrest in Other States.

Gen. Andrews also explained that under the provisions of the new bill, city policemen would be empowered to pursue suspected bootleggers into both Maryland and Virginia and arrest them where they were caught. Also, it was said, Washington police could conduct raids in other States if they were located there while in pursuit of bootleggers chased from Washington.

Search warrants may also be issued from the police court of the District of Columbia, under the measure, and by the United States commissioners here in cases where a still or any distilling apparatus is set up within a private dwelling for purposes of manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

"The liquor traffic operators have taken advantage of the protection offered private dwellings from entry by search warrants," Gen. Andrews declared in his letter, "to use them as distilleries. They rent these dwellings and establish a family therein whose occupantion it is to distill alcohol for use in the bootleg trade," he said. "They instruct them never, under any circumstances, to sell any liquor on the premises," the general declared.

That the families of the dwellings are safe, Gen. Andrews pointed out, is clear, due to a provision in the present law which provides that search warrants may be issued only on evidence of selling.

Would Strengthen Law.

"We can break up this source of supply only by having the law provide that search warrants may be issued on evidence of manufacture for commercial purposes," Mr. Andrews stated. "I can not see that this will in any way impair the protection of the citizen from improper invasion of his home, and yet it will strengthen the hand of the government in its effort to reach the source of supply for the bootleg industry."

The other amendments proposed carry a stiff penalty for the forging of withdrawal permits. "In spite of our best efforts, liquor is diverted and impure medicinal whisky sold on prescription as a result of the counterfeit permits and other forms in use," Gen. Andrews declared. No penalty at present is provided for this counterfeiting, it was pointed out.

Another provision makes it imperative that all manufacturers of commercial cereal beverage operate under government supervision. It is impossible to control the output of high-powered beer under the present law, it was pointed out.

Summary condemnation of vehicles seized in liquor violations and the subjecting of alcohol or rum, used for purposes of liquor

CIVIC FEDERATION REELECTS CITIZENS COUNCIL MEMBERS

Dr. George H. Richardson and G. T. Beason Win on First Ballot.

DELEGATES DECLARE VOTE TO BE UNANIMOUS

Winners Will Be the Banquet Guests at Calvary Hall on April 14.

With clocklike precision, in accordance with rules made at its recent meeting, the Federation of Civic Associations conducted a dignified election of negro members of the citizens advisory council in the board room at the District building last night, resulting in the return of Dr. George H. Richardson, president of the federation, and George T. Beason, of Georgetown, to membership for another term.

Eight civic associations qualified five delegates, and four qualified four each, a total of 56 votes. On the first ballot Richardson received 54, Beason received 34 and W. H. Lewis, jr., of Garfield, 22. Elzie S. Hoffman and H. D. Woodson withdrew in favor of Lewis, and Capt. Howard D. Queen in favor of Richardson and Beason before the ballot was taken.

Nomination speeches were made by roll call of associations from 8:30 until 9 o'clock, Benning-Glendale-Oakland, Georgetown, Public Interest, Ivy City, Pleasant Plains, Potomac Park and Central Northwest associations expressing indorsement of Richardson and Beason for re-election, thereby indicating the final result. Barry Farms, Garfield, Northest Boundary and Southwest Civic associations favored Lewis in place of Beason.

Explanation Demanded.

Elzie S. Hoffman, of Barry Farms demanded explanation of Dr. Richardson's failure to vote on the question of Sunday observance in a recent meeting of the advisory council. It was explained that the declination to vote was due to Richardson's inability to state the views of the Federation of Civic Associations, to which the matter had not been referred.

John E. Bowles, executive secretary of the federation, acted as judge of the election, assisted by Morrissey S. Koonce and Dr. J. A. Porter as tellers, and George Shaed and W. R. Giles as clerks. On motion of C. W. Tignor, of the Southwest Civic association, seconded by W. H. Lewis, jr., the ballot was declared unanimous in favor of return of Richardson and Beason.

The federation voted to have the two members of the advisory council as guests at a banquet to be given on the night of April 14 in the parish hall of Calvary Protestant Episcopal church, Eleventh and G streets northeast.

Six white members of the citizens advisory council are to be elected tonight at the meeting of the Federation of Citizens' associations. There are seventeen candidates. The voting will be done by the delegates to the federation, who number 100.

PRESIDENT WANTS COAL LEGISLATION ENACTED

Suggests Congress Adopt a Strike-Prevention Plan Before End of Session.

(By the Associated Press.)

Congress should enact coal legislation before the present session adjourns, in the opinion of President Coolidge, so that any future labor troubles in the mine fields will not leave the public without fuel.

The House commerce committee, now taking testimony on various phases of the coal industry, would do well, Mr. Coolidge believes, to frame its legislation around recommendations submitted by the presidential coal commission after its investigation of the industry a few years ago. Two definite provisions for handling the coal-labor problem stand out in the President's mind as essential to any effective legislation Presidential authority to appoint a strike mediation board and machinery for coal administration in event of a strike.

Before it attempts to draft a bill, the House committee should, in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge, call all interested parties, including miners, operators and membeys of the cabinet who would be concerned with any labor disputes in the coal fields.

Representative Jacobstein (Democrat), New York, urged the House committee yesterday to enact legislation to unify the coal industry under government control, adding that the industry itself could consolidate its activities if the government would permit it. He has introduced a bill to creat a fact-finding bureau and an emergency board to hear wage disputes in the industry.

Cutter Nears Port With Crippled Ship

Norfolk, Va., April 2 (By A. P.). After being held almost at a standstill by stiff head winds, the coast guard cutter Carrabassett, which has the disabled American steamer Moravia Bridge in tow, reported tonight that the weather had moderated and she was proceeding toward Cape Henry at a five-knot speed.

The cutter picked up the ship about 114 miles southeast of Cape Henry early this morning. She should reach port late tomorrow. Further than that her engines were disabled nothing concerning the Moravia Bridge's troubles are known here.

7 DISTRICT BILLS, 2 AFFECTING PARKS, PASSED BY SENATE

City Planning Included in Scope of National Capital Commission.

ARLINGTON WATER BILL IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

King Halts Proposal to Let National Press Club Erect Building 140 Feet High.

Seven local bills, including those to enlarge the scope of the National Capital park commission and to complete the Rock Creek-Potomac parkway project on a 50-50 basis, were passed yesterday by the Senate.

Other bills passed included one to make the city's new water supply available to Arlington county, Va., the measure placing members of the park police on an equality with members of the metropolitan force in the matter of sick and annual leave as well as disability protection; a bill providing an exchange of land between the District and owners at Thirteenth and Upshur streets northwest; the bill authorizing the $4,431 claim against the government of Capt. Murray A. Cobb, former well-known local real estate man, and now an invalid, and a measure removing the prohibition against married women acting as sureties and guarantors.

On the objection of Senator King, of Utah, a measure which would permit the National Press club to place a roof garden atop its new building at Fourteenth and F streets northwest was not considered.

Fight on Parkway Measure.

The water bill now goes to the president, having already passed the House, while the parkway and National Capital park commission bills go back to the House for consideration of Senate amendments. It is likely that the commission bill will be agreed to by the House without a conference, but a determined House fight is likely to develop around the parkway measure.

The Senate changed the commission bill to insure that it shall be purely an advisory body and to provide also that two of the four "eminent citizens" to be members of the commission shall be "bona fide residents" of the District. The House provided only one.

In its advisory capacity the enlarged body, which will have the name of the National Capital park and planning commission, will have a broad scope over all factors of city planning in this city and adjacent communities.

Unfair to Shift Burden.

As passed by the House, the parkway measure would make available $600,000 from the District surplus fund for the completion of the parkway project. At the instance of Senator Phipps, of Colorado, the Senate provided that the District and Federal governments should split 50-50 in completion of the park link, just as they have proceeded heretofore. Approximately $1,400,000 has been expended in the acquisition of necessary parks on the 50-50 basis. Only a few parcels of land are outstanding, and the Colorado senator contended it was unfair for the Federal government, after having initiated the project, now to shift the burden to the District.

Senator King sought in the consideration of the Arlington county water bill to give the District commissioners control instead of the War Department, and quoted newspaper statements of Engineer Commissioner Bell to the effect that this should be done. Senators Swanson and Glass, of Virginia, and Copeland, of New York, however, contended that Commissioner Bell had told the committee there was no objection to the War Department having control.

Commissioners Approve McChesney License Bill

The District commissioners at their meeting yesterday considered two pending bills proposing to license and regulate local real estate brokers. They voted disapproval of the Blanton bill and recommended favorable action on the Senate measure, known as the McChesney bill, suggesting, however, three minor amendments having a bearing on the administration of the proposed law.

Most important of these was to change the section that names the corporation counsel as attorney for the licensing board, it being urged the board engage its own lawyer and pay him out of examination fees.

The commissioners reported the bill to license and regulate chiropractors back to Congress without recommendation, except to suggest that before its enactment the bill be amended by striking out authorization of chiropractors to sign birth and death certificates. Similar bills have heretofore been approved by the commissioners. Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning's opposition prevented approval in this instance, it was said.

Mr. Dunlap, who was blind, came to this city from Toledo, Ohio. Yesterday he complained of feeling ill while conversing with members of the Reynolds family and before a physician could be summoned he died. Heart disease is believed to be the cause of his death.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until word is received from his son at Haiti. Besides his son he is survived by a sister, Miss Mary Dunlap, of Toledo, and a daughter, Miss Jennette Dunlap, who is with her brother in Haiti.

EXTRA AIR PAY DUE MITCHELL, IS RULING

Army Must Pay Colonel $1,027 for 37 Flights, McCarl Declares.

Comptroller General McCarl yesterday ruled that the army must pay Col. William Mitchell $1,027 for the 37 flights he made in one day at Bolling field, January 16, 1926. The flights consumed but one hour and ten minutes actual flying time.

Col. Mitchell put in a claim for the extra flying pay shortly after his resignation from the army after his set-to with his superiors, but Capt. Carl Halla, finance officer of the army stationed in Washington put the matter of payment up to Comptroller General McCarl. Capt. Halla declared he was uncertain, following the arrest, court-martial and sentence of Col. Mitchell as to whether the money was due the colonel.

The law specifies that a pilot absent from flying for three months, at the beginning of the fourth month, has to make at least 30 flights or landings or actually fly twelve hours. Col. Mitchell failed to make any flights during November and December of last year, but more than made up for this when he did take to the air.

M'CORMICKS APPEAL $7,500,000 VERDICT

Dismissal of Action Fought; Stock Dividends Were to Go to Former Wife.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 2 (By A. P.).—Attorneys for Harold McCormick, of Chicago, and Mathilde McCormick Oser, Muriel and Fowler McCormick, children of Harold and Edith Rockefeller McCormick, today appealed from the recent United States District court order dismissing a petition for an injunction to restrain the payment of stock dividends from a trust fund to Mrs. McCormick.

The appeal was taken on the grounds that Judge Robert C. Baltzell erred in his judgment. It alleged the order was contrary to their just rights. Judge Baltzell dismissed the suit because his court had no jurisdiction.

The original suit was to prevent the Equitable Trust Co. of New York from paying $7,500,000 in stock dividends to Mrs. Edith McCormick, who had been made life tenant of income from the trust fund established by John D. Rockefeller in 1917 for his heirs.

MIDSHIPMEN DENIED VACATION AT EASTER

Nulton's Refusal to Grant Leave Disappoints the Naval Students.

Annapolis, April 2.—There was disappointment among most of the midshipmen at the Naval Academy today because they were denied Easter leave—that is, the privilege of visiting friends in nearby cities for a few days.

Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, superintendent of the academy, is averse to allowing extensive liberty privileges except at the Christmas and New Year season.

He made known his policies in this regard when he took charge of the academy last summer. In a formal order issued at that time he outlined the liberty that would be allowed during the year, and out-of-town leave at Eastertide was tabooed.

Still the middies, or at least many of them, held out hope that the ban eventually would be lifted.

Admiral Nulton maintains that academic routine must not be infringed upon any more than is necessary. The midshipmen, he says, must apply themselves to their work. He has also curtailed the time for athletic teams making trips away from the academy.

JURY IS DEADLOCKED IN GOV. DAVIS' TRIAL

Court Directs Acquittal if It Is Found He Did Not Conspire With Son.

Topeka, Kans., April 2 (By A. P.).—Deadlocked nearly seven hours, the jury trying former Gov. Jonathan M. Davis, and Russell Davis, his son, on a charge of accepting a bribe for a pardon, was put to bed at 10:30 o'clock. Deliberations were to be resumed tomorrow. The jury will not be permitted to delay over the week end. Since a new term of court opens Monday and District Judge Otis E. Hungate does not wish to complicate the trial with a continuance into the next term.

Under instruction delivered by Judge E. Hungate, the case hinges on whether a conspiracy existed between the former governor and his son to sell the pardon to F. W. Pullman, convicted banker, for $1,250.

Judge Hungate ruled that Jonathan Davis could have committed the offense charged without personally receiving the money, if Russell accepted it because of an understanding with his father. If no conspiracy is found, the court instructed that each defendant be acquitted.

GRADE CROSSING BILL IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Budget Bureau Reports Plans for Elimination of Three Are Acceptable.

Elimination of grade crossings in the District took a forward step yesterday. The bureau of the budget reported to the District commissioners that a bill to abolish three of the principal ones was not in conflict with the President's financial plan. The bill will go to Congress next week with an urgent plea that it be enacted.

The District board of commissioners awarded a contract for construction of a viaduct and subway to replace a fourth-grade crossing at Van Buren street and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks. The contract went to the Potomac Construction Co. for $69,697.

The three subway projects approved by the bureau of the budget include intersections of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad with Fern street northwest, Varnum street northeast and Eastern avenue, to supersede, respectively, the Chestnut street, Bates road and Quarles street grade crossings. Widening of Harvard street between Lanier place and the entrance to the Zoological park also received the approval of the bureau of the budget.

MAURETANIA SETS NEW SPEED MARK IN RESCUE EFFORT

Giant Liner Makes 29 Knots in Hour While Speeding to Sinking Ship.

FOUR VESSELS TURNED OFF COURSE FOR RACE

Laleham's Crew Finally Saved by Tanker Shirvan and Ship Is Set Afire.

New York, April 2 (By A. P.).—The manner in which men of the sea rally to the aid of their comrades when wind and wave batter a ship to pieces, was stirringly revealed when the Cunard liner Mauretania reached port today. Its log showed that when the freighter Laleham called for help on March 31, four ships turned from their courses and none gave up the race until the tanker Shirvan had taken off all 37 of the Laleham's crew and the ill-fated ship had been set afire.

During this race for life messages of cheer were constantly sent on to the foundering vessel. Such great speed was made that the Mauretania broke all official records among passenger liners when for a whole hour she maintained a speed of 29 knots. The previous record was made by the same liner several years ago when she maintained a speed of 27.04 knots for an hour. But that was in fair weather and in her race to the Laleham she was fighting against heavy seas.

It was at 3:20 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a wireless from the Laleham was sent to Capt. Rostron, of the Mauretania, advising that the freighter was in distress and giving her position.

Capt. Rostron immediately wirelessed: "Coming your assistance full speed. Distance, 160 miles. Speed, 25½ knots. Expect to arrive 1 a. m."

He ordered the great ship swung off its course to head for its disabled little comrade of the deep; had staterooms prepared for the men he hoped to save, and broth made to feed them.

The Mauretania learned an hour and a half later, through an intercepted message, that the tanker Shirvan, the George Washington, of the United States line, and an unnamed freighter, had also joined the race. The indications were that the Shirvan would be the first on the scene by several hours, but the others all pushed on so that no chance of a rescue might be lost.

Asked Aid Before Dark.

The Laleham sent out another call saying, "please do utmost to arrive before dark." And then the Laleham spoke across the water to the Shirvan, asking her if she would stand by when she arrived until the Mauretania got there. The answer from the Shirvan was, "believe you in sight nine miles away. Do you wish to abandon ship and for me to take you off?" This was at 5:30 o'clock.

The condition of the Laleham had by this time evidently become acute, as they almost immediately told the Shirvan: "We will abandon ship at once."

The stricken vessel wirelessed the Mauretania that its crew was abandoning to the Shirvan, but added: "Please come ahead." "We will proceed as long as we can be of assistance." The Mauretania responded and continued to steam on, receiving from moment to moment the record of the rescue.

Then the Shirvan announced that it was proceeding to Falmouth and no more aid was needed. The three other ships turned quietly back into their scheduled paths.

Princess Victoria's Condition Unchanged

London, April 2 (By A. P.).—No change was noted tonight in the condition of Princess Victoria, sister of King George, who is ill with influenzal pneumonia at Marlborough house. Except for this announcement, the physicians attending her did not issue an official bulletin.

The Prince of Wales is still confined to his room at York house after the operation on his ear early in the week. He is described as making good progress and was able to sit up for a little while today.

Converted by Sermon, He Admits Holdups

Bridgeport, Conn., April 2 (By A. P.).—Walter G. Gordon, 23, of Brookline, Mass., who last night, after listening to a sermon on "Onesimus, the Runaway Slave," at the Christian Union here, asked the Rev. Charles W. Simpson, head of the union, to turn him over to the police as a deserter from the navy, army and coast guard, today told the police, they say, that he had taken part in holdups and had passed bad checks in a number of cities.

Announcer Is Fined $25 In Radio Slander Case

Chicago, April 2 (By A. P.). The country's pioneer court action involving a charge of radio slander reached a decision today, when Philip Friedlander, radio announcer, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $25 and costs. The charge was made by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, after he had searched the statutes vainly for a law governing slander by radio.

On March 11 the State's attorney alleged that he was slandered when Friedlander broadcast a statement that Robert E. Crowe, with others, had entered a Chicago cafe. Crowe heard the announcement over the radio in his home, raided the cabaret and arrested Friedlander.

Judge Gentzel, before giving his decision, said that legislation governing radio slander would be of benefit in further cases of this kind.

$36,250,000 GIFTS PROVIDED BY WILL OF MRS. HARKNESS

Many of Bequests Had Been Anticipated Before Her Death in March.

New York, April 2 (By A. P.).—Specific bequests to organizations totaling $36,250,000 are made in the will of Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness, wife of one of the earliest partners of John D. Rockefeller, in her will filed for probate today. She died March 27.

Bequests totaling $26,000,000 are estimated to have been anticipated by gifts made during her life time and other bequests totaling $2,250,000 have been partly anticipated. The will provided that all bequests should be reduced by gifts made during her life and subsequent to January 1, 1920.

The following bequests were anticipated by gifts: The Commonwealth fund, $20,000,000; the Presbyterian hospital in the city of New York, $1,500,000; Yale university, $3,000,000; the Metropolitan Museum of Art, $1,000,000; the New York Public library, $1,000,000; the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, $250,000; Flower hospital, $25,000.

The following bequests have been partly anticipated by gifts: The church extension committee of the Presbytery of New York, $1,000,000; the Hampton Normal and Agricultural institute, $750,000; the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute, $500,000.

The following have not been anticipated: The board of home missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, $2,500,000; the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church, $2,500,000; the American Museum of Natural History, $1,000,000; the New York Zoological society, $1,000,000; the State Charities Aid society of New York, $500,000; the Charity Organization society of the city of New York, $25,000; New York Association for Improving Condition of the Poor, $25,000; the Lakeside hospital, of Cleveland, $50,000; Cleveland Homeopathic hospital, $10,000; Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, of Caledonia, Ohio, $15,000.

In addition to all this, Mrs. Harkness gave $200,000 to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward S. Harkher employ, and made her son, Edness; about $175,000 to persons in ward S. Harkness, residuary legatee. The son is appointed sole executor without bond.

The will states that Mrs. Harkness had arranged for the construction of a series of dormitories at Yale university in memory of her son, Charles W. Harkness, and provided that if these were not completed during her life, the executors should attend to their completion. These buildings, however, had been completed before Mrs. Harkness' death.

Air Mail Lights Rout Wolves; Protect Sheep

Evanston, Wyo., April 2 (By A. P.).—Wyoming flock masters, who for years have resorted to rifles, traps and poison in futile efforts to protect their sheep from predatory animals, are agreed that the brightly lighted transcontinental air mail route has succeeded where they have failed.

Sheepmen have made the discovery that the coyotes and wolves have abandoned the ranges entirely for less civilized haunts as a result of the powerful beacon lights.

Yet to offset this benefit a new problem arises. The slumber of the sheep on the ranges is being disturbed by the bright lights and the flocks refuse to bed down, but continue feeding during the night.

IS ENGAGED, SAYS GIRL TO WED E. W. BROWNING

Building Home for Her, She Adds; He Offers Skin to Saves Her Beauty.

SOON TO PICK OUT RING

New York, April 2 (By A. P.).—Fifteen-year-old Frances Heenan is engaged to marry Edward W. Browning, she announced tonight. He is building a home for them on a 135-acre estate at Belmore, Long Island, she added.

The latest Cinderella of the elderly real estate operator made the announcement to "correct the false impression that I am an adventuress" and to protect her beleaguered admirer, whose attentions to her are under scrutiny of the Children's society.

Both Browning and the girl previously had refused to confirm or deny reports of their engagement, although they made no secret of their friendship. The girl now is recovering from burns on the face said to have been inflicted by an unidentified assailant who threw acid on her as she slept, and Browning today offered to undergo a skin grafting operation to save her beauty.

"The date of our wedding has not been fixed," Miss Heenan said, "but it will be some time after my sixteenth birthday, which is on June 23."

"Daddy," as she called Browning, has promised to let her pick out her engagement ring at a Fifth avenue jewelry store, she said.

"I am not marrying Mr. Browning for his money nor for a career," she added. "I am a home-loving person and I want intellectual companionship with a man with whom I can feel safe."

CAPT. WILKINS' AIRPLANE SAFE AT POINT BARROW

Trip From Fairbanks, Alaska, Made in 4½ Hours, Is Message by Radio.

DELAY IN SENDING WORD

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 2 (By A. P.).—Capt. George Hubert Wilkins and Lieut. Carl Benjamin Eielson, who left here Wednesday in an airplane for Point Barrow, Alaska, have arrived at their destination.

A radio message from Barrow, 500 miles away over the top of the Brooks range, received here, indicated that the adventurers arrived at Barrow four and one-half hours after their departure from Fairbanks.

Only small radio sets are at Barrow, and reception here was poor. The message was received last night but appeared to have been written the day before. It said the explorers, who are preparing for an aerial expedition over the Arctic ocean, in search of land "arrived safe Barrow noon." The airplane carried 3,000 pounds of supplies.

"RAIN" EASTER SUNDAY

What a shame! That is if it really rains.

We are heartily in favor of "shooting" the Weather Man early Saturday morning. That's about the only way in which he can be prevented from issuing a Rain Bulletin for Easter Sunday.

Think of it! Why, that would ruin the plans for the annual showing of Easter Finery by Washington's Fair Sex.

Say, on second thought, shooting would be too good for that Weather Man.

Fortunately, there is always a silver lining to every cloud. The particular silver lining we have in mind is the fact that three out of every five people in the city of Washington are owners of automobiles. Consequently, rain on Easter Sunday won't bother the average three in question. For they can don their "Easter Duds" and visit their friends without exposing themselves unnecessarily to the weather.

The remaining two out of five would seem to be "out of luck." But, we have provided for that.

All they have to do is come to our Used Car Showrooms, pick out the car they want, pay a small amount down, and drive it away at once.

They can then join the other three in singing, "Let It Rain, Let It Pour, What Do We Care," etc.

That, "It Is Cheaper to Sell Them Than to Pay Rent," is still proving itself.

BRUSHING ALONE WON'T SAVE YOUR TEETH

What Goes on Behind Her Eyes?

Do you ever wonder what she really—secretly—thinks of you? When you catch her contemplating your face now and then, what has she been looking at?

Was she unconsciously concentrating on some feature that displeases her? Was there a little innermost voice whispering secretly to her, "How handsome he would be—but for his teeth?"

Good Teeth Depend on Healthy Gums

For years people have cleansed with great care just their teeth, hoping to preserve their pearl-like beauty. But in vain. It is said that a clean tooth never decays—but the cleanest tooth, unless supported in healthy gums, will discolor, loosen, then fall out. Thus works Pyorrhea and other insidious mouth diseases. But fortunately, Dental Science has discovered a totally different preparation which produces live, healthy gums, and works against Pyorrhea.

GUM RUB is not intended to take the place of your tooth brush. It is not a tooth paste—it is unlike anything you have ever used in your mouth. GUM RUB cleans your mouth and massages your gums in order to send a healthy flow of blood to the much abused gum tissues.

GUM RUB Makes Them Healthy

For perfect mouth health—and better health in general—clean your teeth twice a day with a good dentifrice and afterwards massage your gums with GUM RUB.

Recommended by Dentists

Reputable dentists are agreed that the real secret of combating Pyorrhea and other mouth diseases lies in a practical means of promoting healthy blood circulation to the weakened gum tissues. GUM RUB removes the slippery coating (mucin) from the gums, enabling you to massage them with your finger. A bit of GUM RUB on the index finger, a moment's brisk massage, a dash of water, and your mouth feels clean and clear with your gums tingling with new life. Begin using GUM RUB today.

GUM RUB is of pleasing taste. The quick results obtained with GUM RUB are amazing and permanent. GUM RUB aids nature without resort to dangerous medication, hence its effectiveness is lasting.

Do you wear a plate? GUM RUB will prove a blessing. Try it today.

The Barbarian Lover

By Margaret Pedler

THE BARBARIAN LOVER.

The Story Thus Far:

Patricia Luttrell, daughter of a resident British Commissioner in India, meets Kerry Lorimer, her father's "man of mystery" and a few days later he saves her from the charge of a wounded, maddened tiger. Her father killed on the polo field, Lorimer escorts Pat to England, to make her home with her godfather, the Earl of Marchdale. She meets the earl, his sister and his nephew and heir, Kit Wynsborough, and learns that Kerry is also a nephew, but in disgrace because of a supposed theft. She finds that Kit is in love with the rector's daughter but afraid to tell his uncle. She later meets Kerry "caravanning" nearby and he forces her to dismount from her horse. She admits her love for him but he says he cannot marry because of the blight on his name. He catches her as a bolt of lightning stuns her. On her return an auto frightens her horse and Pat is taken to the home of Peggy Bethune, a rich widow, whose brother, Mark Strown, owns the auto which caused the accident. Strown falls in love with Pat only to learn that another holds her heart. The earl discovers the love affair between Kit and the rector's daughter and forbids Kit to marry a "village girl." Kit prepares to leave, Pat beards the earl in his den, reproaches him with attempting to dominate the lives of his whole family, particularly that of Kit. He tells her that Kerry was charged with theft which he never denied. Patricia discusses Kerry with the earl's sister and the confidential secretary of the earl is stricken with influenza, casting a gloom over the castle. While decorating the church, Mark Strown proposes to Pat and is told she can be nothing but friends with him. The confidential secretary dies and it is disclosed that he took the money for which Kerry was blamed. Thus Kerry's name is cleared. Thanks to Pat's intercession, the earl gives his consent to the marriage of Kit and the rector's daughter. Kerry returns and tells of the financial arrangement that led to the false accusation.

"NOT a bit—honest Injun," she assured him, laughing. "Kit and Nancy have fixed up the whole thing unaided. You wait, godfather, until they're married and living at the Dower house. There are some farms and a good bit of land attached to it, aren't there?" Then, as he nodded assent: "Well, you'll find Kit will make quite a good landowner when the time comes. He's really keen about things—only you've never let him have a free hand, you know."

"Oh, of course, it's sure to be my fault!" he growled, but there was a reluctant twinkle in his eyes which went far to contradict the gruffness of his tones. "And what sort of a landowner will Kerry make, may I ask? I suppose you're competent to give an opinion in that direction, at any rate?"

She smiled.

"I'm afraid he's got no land to experiment upon at present—unless you count Brihou island as a 'residential estate'!"

"But suppose he had? Supposing"—cautiously—"Hurst manor were available for him?"

"Hurst manor? Do you mean that lovely old place near Ravenhurst?"

"Yes, I do mean that lovely old place near Ravenhurst. It happens to belong to me, and, as the present tenant doesn't want it any longer, I thought of giving it to Kerry. Do you think he'd like it? Would you like it?" He threw a swift, searching glance at her from under his wrinkled lids.

"Would I like it!" She recollected Hurst manor as embracing a thousand or more acres—surely space enough even to please Kerry! "Is it a pleasant hobby of yours to go handing round large chunks of the county like that?" She rallied the earl with dancing eyes.

"No, it is not," he snapped. "But—I owe Kerry something, you see. Though I know," he added hastily, fearful lest his remarkably candid young goddaughter should fire off one of her pertinent comments at him—"though I know a few acres of land aren't precisely compensation for ten damnable years."

In an instant Patricia's heart melted to kindness. She squeezed her godfather's arm.

"I think he'll understand, though, just what you mean by giving him Hurst manor. Have you said anything to him about it yet?"

A guarded look came into Lord Marchdale's eyes. He was not well versed in the arts of Machiavelli—diplomacy is rarely an adjunct of the autocrat—and he felt that it behooved him to walk warily if his scheme for keeping Kerry in England were to be successful.

"I believe I did just mention the matter to him," he rejoined in a casual tone of voice. "But very likely it's slipped out of his mind. He hasn't said anything to you about it, I suppose—or about his future plans?"

"Not a word. We haven't discussed the future at all. I think"—dreamily—"we've been to happy in the present."

"Well, how would it be if you told him?"

"Oh, godfather! May I?"

By this time they had reached the house, and Patricia halted excitedly as they entered the hall. "May I really?"

The earl nodded.

"You may. Tell him that Hurst manor will be my wedding present."

Impulsively she threw her arms around his neck.

"I always declared you were a gem amongst godparents!" she exclaimed, kissing him warmly.

After that, it was difficult to contain her impatience until Kerry's return. He had gone up to London by the early morning train and was not expected back again until late in the afternoon. When he came, Patricia was sitting alone in the hall, curled up in a big armchair by the fire.

A bang of the great oaken door of the castle heralded his arrival. Followed a few seconds' pause—long enough for a man in a hurry to pull off his overcoat—and then the sound of quick, eager footsteps as he came striding into the hall. In his hand he carried a telegram, its dull red envelope carelessly ripped open. His eyes were curiously bright, the pupils still a little dilated with the concentration of driving through the winter dusk, and just above the ears his hair was lightly powdered over with a spray of hoar-frost. Afterward, Patricia remembered with a curious numb feeling of astonishment how she had noted all these trivial, unimportant details. She even remembered how cool his lips had felt, fresh from the sharpness of the outside air, as he kissed her.

"I've news for you, sweetest," he announced.

"And so have I for you," she returned, smiling. "Which shall we have first—yours or mine? Is yours good?"

"The best in the world. Oh, Pat, Pat—belovedest woman! At last the big things of life are coming to us—the things that count." Leaning over her chair, he picked her up bodily out of it and set her on her feet in front of him, still retaining his clasp of her. His eyes were brilliant with a light of splendid triumph. "Listen, adored! I, even I—wanderer upon the face of the earth that I am—have now a home and a roof-tree of my own to offer you!"

"Then you've seen godfather, after all? she exclaimed in surprise. "He's told you—about Hurst Manor. Oh, Kerry, isn't it dear of him to give it to us?"

"Hurst Manor! We're not going to live there." He hardly seemed to take in the drift of what she was saying, merely catching the name Hurst Manor and dismissing it carelessly. "This"—he held out the telegram—"this concludes a bargain. I didn't tell you before, lest the deal should fall through. But now I've got it!"—exultantly. "I've bought a tract of land in Rhodesia—almost virgin soil. Hardly cultivated at all, because the chap who owned it crocked up in health. There isn't even a house on it—only a shanty where we'll have to picnic while the house—our house, Pat!—is building. It will have to be the tin mug and plate, after all, sweet! But I'll wash them up——"

He was running on, overflowing with the joy of attainment, hardly heeding how she was taking it, when all at once she twisted herself out of his clasp and stepped back from him, staring at him with wide, incredulous eyes.

"Rhodesia? Rhodesia?" she repeated. "Kerry, what do you mean? What in the world are you talking about? We—we aren't going to live in Rhodesia!"

"Oh, but indeed we are, sweetheart! We shall become hewers of wood and drawers of water for a space, and dig our livelihood from the soil itself. At least, I shall do the digging; you won't. You'll wear blue ginghams," he explained gaily, with masculine fatuity, "and bake cakes. But it will be life! We shall be free as air—literally monarchs of all we survey. It will be our farm—our very own—to make what we will of it. Isn't it glorious?"

"Glorious!" There was a peculiar note in her voice. Then she gave a queer little laugh. It sounded as though it were jerked out of her. "I don't think you've taken in my piece of news, Kerry," she went on quickly. "You won't need the farm in Rhodesia. We can have a roof-tree of our own, here in England. Godfather is going to give us Hurst Manor."

He nodded.

"Oh, I know he's willing to do that. And it's decent of him. But I don't want to live in England. It's far too cramped and civilized a life for a barbarian like me."

"And what about me?"

The little question came with a curious clipped precision that at last arrested Kerry's attention. He regarded her uncertainly, with frowning eyes.

"What do you mean?" he said quickly. "You didn't suppose, did you, that I ever thought of living here permanently—living in England?"

"I never supposed anything else," she answered. "Why shouldn't you? There's nothing now to keep you away from England. You're cleared—absolutely cleared—of that false charge, Kerry"—an underlying note of fear in her voice—"I don't understand you."

EVE IN PARIS

Dearest Claribel: Next time I'm born I'm going to be a man. They have such an easy life and so few temptations. Me, I try walking from the hotel to any place whatsoever in this terrible Paris, and my eyes are fairly popping out of my head and through the windows—wanting to buy, or to steal when nobody's looking. Then I go to the Ritz for lunch, and everything I have looks so much less chic than everything I see! * * * What a life!

I'm always sketching shoes for you—I suppose because shoes are so terribly important at the moment. This one is in gray-beige snakeskin, a new color and very popular. And isn't the line just too divine? The trimming is of patent leather and she wore it with a black dress and hat and gloves in the same etherial color as the snakeskin—like a leaf that has died and silvered to a skeleton.

The watch I observed on a South American who probably owned all of Tacna-Arica and had designs on the rest of the continent. It was all diamonds, on a black moire ribbon, but the little diamond cover opened when she wanted to know the time. Probably her alarm clock is set with rubies and has a live nightingale inside * * * But, oh my angel, praise be to heaven, she was fat—fat!

And for the monogram pin, it, too, was diamonds, but I've seen a very nice replica in the humble rhinestone. It is worn on the shoulder of the blouse, or on the hat. As ever, EVE.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

MERELY A SUGGESTION.

If you've found that grumbling hasn't paid you well,
If you've found men weary of the griefs you tell,
If you haven't prospered as you think you should,
Why not change your method, maybe it's no good;
If men seem to spurn you, 'spite of all you do
Something is the matter. Maybe it's with you.

Life is very simple. Men don't pass you by
Just because you're wearing last year's coat or tie;
Friendship here is builded not on whims like that;
Men will not dislike you, being thin or fat.
So, if you're not winning all that seems your due
Something is the matter, possibly with you.

What of your employer? Does he like your work?
Is he friendly with you? Maybe you're a shirk.
Does he seem to favor some one over you?
It's because that other better work will do;
Don't sit down and grumble that his ways are strange.
Give yourself a shake-up. You're the one to change.

If you've ever found your manners those which men detest,
If you've found that cunning hasn't served you best,
If you've found that growling hasn't been worth while,
And you've lost by frowning, why not try a smile?
Boy, if you're not listed with the brave and true,
Something is the matter. Maybe it's with you.

The POST HOUSEKEEPER

Home Efficiency Service

Nancy Carey—

Easter Sunday! Some of us may wish to avoid the effort entailed in the preparation of a holiday dinner, so with the menu for tomorrow, which is to include roast chicken and "fixings," I shall give a menu for a buffet supper and the necessary recipes for the construction of the various new dishes.

Easter, along with Christmas, New Years and Thanksgiving, seems somehow to suggest a recklessness in the matter of the kitchen budget, but it can be made up later if the recklessness is not beyond all reason. The chicken will, for instance, no doubt, serve also for Monday's dinner, and to offset the cucumber and asparagus, not to mention the strawberries, we can serve on Monday macaroni with cheese, the ingredients for which are more than likely on the pantry shelf, and for dessert jello with cream from the top of the bottle. If, let me add, there are children in the family to drink the milk, the cream should not be removed, but shaken back into the milk for the children to drink.

Your fruit punch, Mrs. L., may be served to your guests during the evening, as coffee is to be served with your supper. I sincerely hope this reaches you, as I neglected to answer this question in my reply to your letter.

Cream of Celery Soup.

Parboil three cups of celery cut in small pieces for ten minutes in two cups of water. Drain and add two cups of water to which one bouillon cube has been added and cook until the celery is soft, and then turn the whole through a sieve into another cooking dish and rub the celery through the sieve. Scald one slice of onion in three cups of milk or, preferably, two and a half cups of milk and one-half cup thin cream; remove the onion and add the milk to the first mixture. Bind the soup together with three tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with a little milk, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste and serve with slices of French bread buttered and browned in the oven.

In cooking artichokes remove the scattered outside leaves, cut an inch of the pointed leaves from the top and boil in salted acidulated water for 30 or 40 minutes, or until the outside leaves fall away very easily when gently pulled.

Cucumbers as a side dish, which is the manner in which we are making use of them on this occasion, should be peeled, the sides lined fairly deep with a sharp knife from one end to the other, sliced as thin as it is possible to slice them, and put to soak in salted ice water or in cold water in the ice box for several hours before they are served. They are in this manner rendered more easily digested and a delicious flavor is given them. The bowl in which they are put to soak may be wiped with garlic if you so desire. In my opinion to do this adds materially to the flavor of the cucumber when it has been drained of the salted water, placed in individual small dishes and covered with French dressing to serve.

Creamed Potatoes With Grated Cheese en Casserole.

Dice cold boiled potatoes and add them to sufficient white sauce to fill your casserole dish. Butter the casserole dish and place in the bottom about a fourth of the potatoes and sauce, cover with grated sharp American cheese, dot over with butter, a very few drops of onion juice, a few grains of red pepper and a half teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Repeat until the mixture is used up, cover the last or top layer of cheese and seasoning with buttered bread crumbs, garnish with paprika and bake very slowly one-half hour, or sufficiently to melt the cheese.

These are, I believe, the only recipes given today that have not already been printed. I should like to have suggestions from our readers as to the recipes most adaptable to their use, and I will print at any time any recipe that is requested. If any one prefers to send in a stamped envelope, any recipe they wish to have will be sent them. Several readers have asked whether or not there is a charge for this service. There is no charge. The Post has established this department for the convenience of its readers who are homemakers, and The Post and the Housekeeper take pleasure in being of assistance in any way. NANCY CAREY.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

MENTAL MAKEUP OF DRUG ADDICTS.

THE result of drug addiction depends on the drug used, in some measure. A greater factor, however, is the mental makeup of the individual when he begins the use of drugs.

Dr. L. Kolb found that few persons, and none of those who are normal, get pleasure from the use of opiates. If a person is in pain and an opiate relieves that symptom, the one time sufferer is pleased to be free from pain, but that is an indirect effect of the drug.

Unstable people, psychopaths, and the near-insane seem to get a moderate amount of pleasure from the use of the drug in the beginning of their addiction, but this habit of pleasure is soon lost. It is to be remembered that De Quincey's well-known book on pleasures of an opium eater was later followed by his less well-known book on pains of an opium eater. The degree of pleasure which the user gets from the drug in this early stage is almost proportionate to the degree of his mental abnormality when he began its use. There is sometimes a pleasurable thrill following a hypodermic injection, especially if the user is a psychopath.

If a person is normal mentally when he begins to use drugs, the chances are strong that he will not deteriorate mentally or morally for a long time after he becomes an addict. If, however, he is insane or near insane, a psychopath, or mentally unstable, when he begins using opiates, he will deteriorate as time goes on. Kolb says that much of the lying, thieving, moral degradation, and mental deterioration of addicts ascribed in the past to the use of drugs in reality was a part of the personality and character of the person before he began the use of drugs. The drugs have uncovered and brought to the front qualities that had not attracted attention before. However, such people do become worse in all of their bad qualities as the result of drug taking.

There does not seem to be any difference between the several drugs as regards the matter of deteriorating the mind and morals. Heroin may be and doubtless is more dangerous and harmful, but Kolb does not think it causes any more deterioration than do morphine and the other opium derivatives. Cocaine was in another class. Its use gave some momentary pleasure. Addiction to it caused more definite, more certain, and more rapid deterioration of the mind and degradation of character and morals. On the other hand, cocaine does not cause habit in just the sense morphine does.

"A SLAVE TO PILLS."

L. L. D. writes: Am quite a hearty eater of ordinary foods, eating three and four times each day; also a hearty consumer of pills, taking them at least twice a week; have been doing this a number of years and I have been told by different people that this will thin my blood as I grow older and that I may become anemic.

Do you consider taking pills a harmful practice and what may the result be?

You said it in the headline. The practice can not be defended.

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Just Like a Needle.

DEAR Miss McDonald: As a keen admirer of your safe and sound advice, I wonder if you would give my problem consideration.

At the glorius age of 22 I find myself with the clean heart and mind that it has always been my desire to obtain and retain.

To start at the beginning. I derived all my ideals from books which I read and tried to live up to. The path was rather difficult, for the creatures of our imagination are as different from the actual as day is from night.

There were the usual run of bad boys and would-be-bad boys. And the almost-nice boys who seemed to only live for kisses. I rejected them all and trod my lonely way in joyful expectation.

And then upon the scene comes the first man to cause havoc on my serene horizon. He was the son of a new friend of my mother's. I first met him at an informal dance given at his home. I noticed he was a rather poor dancer, but wonder of wonders when he took me in his arms and we glided across the floor I felt as though I were in heaven.

We met at widely separated intervals over a period of a year and a half. I had intimate glimpses of his home life and found him a clean-living, hard-working fellow, devoid of the loathsome habits most boys of today cultivate. At 25 he is an ardent out-of-door sportsman—but the ladies do not seem of special interest to him.

From the very beginning he drew me as a magnet draws a needle. And then one night it happened—he took me in his arms and kissed me. Walls seemed to fall down and scorching flame come in their place to envelop us. I was shocked to find that I wanted the very things that in others had filled me with disgust. I think we were both shaken to the foundation of our beings. He hinted at matrimony, but I avoided the issue, for I felt that it was not love.

When he had gone I was thoroughly frightened, so wrote him a letter and tried to explain kindly that things could not go on like that. I was even a little tender, but I suppose whenever there is an inclination to care, meanings are greatly distorted. At any rate, he never replied. And now four months have gone by with never a word. I have not suffered the proverbial tortures of love. I am always conscious of his nearness. I don't think I ever forget about him utterly. But I would not send for him to come back. When he does come back (I mean if he does) I shall feel that it is because he really loves. And if he does, I feel sure he could teach me to care, too. But will he come? What really happened, Miss McDonald—or can you tell me? I feel I did what seemed the only thing to do—yet now four months and no answer, and oh, he is of such splendid length and breadth. His eyes are like a winter's day when the sun is mellow and bright—so keen and clean and sweet. Oh, do you think that a man with eyes like that could help being splendid? Do you think he could be just like all the rest?

MILLICENT.

Dear child, stop reading "hectic" literature. I have had to cut down your letter because it read like a page from a "penny-dreadful." If you hadn't been just supersaturated with molten drama the man with the eyes might have got his proposal over in better shape. Certainly if he returns you must try to forget what the heroine in the latest thriller felt as the hero drove his burning eyes right through her aching heart—without a stop. It is my opinion that you thoroughly startled the young man by your enthusiasm. But I may be wrong, and the magnet may come back after the needle.

Just hope for the best and keep your little oxfords on the good solid ground. Let the story book girls do all the flights. You keep close to earth, and the young men will keep their wits and be able to tell you just what is on their minds, when they take you in their arms. It's uncomfortable to be left guessing. And it's most uncomfortable to be a young man with winter eyes, and take a girl in your arms and find that she thinks she is in flames or something. Just take life serenely, Milly dear, and life will be kinder to you. The girl in the book, you see, doesn't have to worry because she knows everything is going to wind up with a beautiful fade-out in the last chapter. But as you have learned these fade-outs in real life sometimes last four months or longer, and are uncommonly uncomfortable for all concerned. So just come down to earth. And when you meet this boy again just say "Hello, Bert, where have you been?" and forget that he's been hiding. In time he may pull himself together enough to tell you what it's all about—which is more than I can do at this writing. All I can do is to pray you not to feel you are Juliet when you meet him downtown some day.

Have sense, Millie, and let the heroines have the hysterics.

Paris Hairdressers Become Autocratic

Paris, April 2 (By A. P.).—The Paris hairdresser, to the fair sex, has always been independent, but since milady took to short hair he has become autocratic.

The editor of the women's page of the Intransigeant tells how she and a friend went to have their bobs trimmed. Suddenly their talk was interrupted by the inrush of the master hairdresser who, with angered mein, pointed an accusing finger at a notice on the wall:

"Lady customers are requested to maintain absolute silence."

The newspaper woman gave way to professional curiosity and asked the reason. The artist in hairdressing explained that chattering customers interfered with the proper exercise of his art and that a religious silence was essential to him and his aids.

MODISH MITZI

This Is the Way They'll Look on Easter Sunday

By Jay V. Jay

For once in Mitzi's life, and yours, you may not pick her out from the crowd. For once, perhaps, you won't notice how superlatively well dressed she is—because this is Easter Sunday and every one who isn't superlatively well dressed stays at home. This being the official beginning of spring in fashions, you will notice, from left to right: A coat dress with a Chinese collar and ties, a coat dress with wide revers, a coat with a little cape and side pleats in layers. In the next panel, a coat dress with a back flounce, a coat with a high collar and deep V trimming line, a two-piece dress with a flared skirt, a tailored suit, a flaring raglan coat.

Two more coats have capes and the second one has a dress of the material that lines the coat (this is Polly), another cape coat (this is Mitzi and her coat is distinguished by its pleated cape and tie collar). Next comes the Goofer, who will never matter less except upon his wedding day. Then another cape dress, a long cape, a slim coat with a collar worn high in back, another cape coat and a coat with side fullness. Most of the hats are small with high crowns, but a few have flaring brims. And will you notice, if you please, what has happened to the length of skirt?

9 MANAGERS PROPOSED FOR TRIAL OF ENGLISH

Number Tentatively Agreed To When Democrats Oppose 5-2 Ratio.

HOUSE TO ACT TUESDAY

(By Associated Press.)

Nine managers may be named by the House to prosecute before the Senate the impeachment case against Federal Judge English, of Illinois.

This number, two more than originally contemplated, was tentatively agreed upon yesterday to satisfy Democratic leaders, who, after the impeachment of the judge yesterday, objected to a ratio of five Republicans to two Democrats on the House representation.

Chairman Graham, of the judiciary committee, which recommended impeachment, suggested the 5-2 ratio, although he said there was a precedent for selecting all of the prosecutors from the party in power, but Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, Democratic floor leader, objected, contending that if seven were named, three should be Democrats.

The House was in adjournment yesterday, but negotiations for a compromise went forward, with the suggestion for nine managers finding favor.

If nine are selected the House prosecutors are expected to be Representatives Hersey, Maine; Stobbs, Massachusetts; Michener, Michigan; Moore, Ohio, and Boies, Iowa, Republicans, and Sumners, Texas; Montague, Virginia; Tilman, Arkansas, and Dominick, South Carolina, Democrats, the last two to serve if the number is increased to nine.

Selection of the managers is scheduled for Tuesday. At that time the judiciary committee plans to present a resolution urging trial of Judge English at a special session of the Senate. This is favored by House leaders, but some senators question the constitutionality of the procedure.

East St. Louis, Ill., April 2 (By A. P.).—Bruce Campbell, attorney for Federal Judge George W. English, who faces impeachment charges preferred by the House yesterday, issued a statement today declaring that there was "not a chance on earth" the jurist would resign, and that he would "fight all the way through."

GROUP MODIFIES RETIREMENT BILL

limits should be nearer 70 years and that there should be a compromise between the $720 present maximum annuity and the proposed $1,200.

The annuity recommended by the committee is understood to be an effort to reflect this compromise, whether it is to be arrived at by a higher divisor than the proposed 45 or some other scheme. Under the plan of using 45 as the divisor, retirement annuities would have been computed on the average salary of the employe for the ten years preceding his retirement multiplied by the number of years in service, not to exceed 30, and then divided by 45.

Very few employes, it is pointed out, will enjoy the maximum annuity. The average retirement annuity under the present law is approximately $450 a year, while the average under the proposed $1,200 annuity was estimated at approximately $700 annually. The compromise maximum annuity understood to have been agreed upon by the House committee will, of course, lower this latter average.

Senator Stanfield, of Oregon, who is in charge of the retirement legislation on the Senate side, has not yet given thought to lowering the annuity, but has begun planning on the 60-62-65 scale of age limits.

It was in the House, however, where the party managers were so definitely set against a too liberal increased retirement at this session and where the greatest concessions will have to be made.

THOMPSON NAMED IN PHILIPPINES SURVEY

exigencies of the War Department will make it impossible for the Secretary of War to leave Washington long enough to proceed to the Philippines.

Meanwhile the general Philippine situation became more complicated with suggestions in Congress that efforts will be made to have the controversy between Gov. Gen. Wood and the natives aired on the floor before adjournment. Should this be done, and it seems probable, facts may be read into the record that will compel the administration to lay its cards on the table.

In the announcement that Col. Thompson, who is commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, would make the investigation at the request of the President, it was also stated:

"The decision of the President to take this step follows the increased interest in Congress recently in regard to the Philippine islands. The President feels that an intensive study of the possibilities of these insular possessions may lead to increased development of their natural resources and that such a study will be of great benefit and importance not only to the United States, but to the Filipinos as well."

The statement stressed the confidence the President has in Col. Thompson and also made it plain that this inquiry will be "most friendly to Gen. Wood," who is one of the closest intimates of the Ohio official. Backing up this statement later the White House spokesman emphasized that there was no belief here that Gen. Wood has fallen down on his job and this was again backed up by Col. Thompson last night.

In explaining his reason for accepting the appointment, which automatically eleminates him from Ohio politics for the coming campaign, Col. Thompson said:

"The assignment given me by President Coolidge is a very interesting one. I can not state what the nature of my report will be. We all feel that there are vast possibilities in the development of the natural resources of the Philippines which have scarcely been touched. I believe that a thorough understanding of the position and possibilities of the islands, if I am able properly to analyze them, may mean a good deal to the industrial interests of the Philippines, the United States and of the world."

Col. Thompson will sail from San Francisco early in June and, in accordance with the instructions given him by President Coolidge will get back here about the middle of next November. He will take with him a staff of trained investigators including experts from the Department of Commerce. However he made it very plain last night that he is not going there to back up the suggestion of the rubber trade of the United States, and especially of Harvey Firestone, to determine above all else whether the Philippines is the natural place for the United States to promote a rubber growing industry.

"I simply intend to develop all of the possibilities of the Philippines so that the President, the American people, and, after all, Congress, shall know what ought to be done there," was his explanation of what he considered his mission to be.

The announcement that the President had decided to send a personal representative to the islands created something of a sensation in congressional circles. It was immediately accepted that the Executive did not intend that there should be any investigation of the Philippine situation by the present session of Congress if that could be headed off. As a matter of fact there has been an undercurrent of bitter criticism here of conditions in the islands and a movement, very much under cover but potentially important, has been in progress which has threatened for weeks to bring about a sensation at least on the floor of the House. With the Thompson inquiry backed to the limit by the administration it now is accepted there will be no injection of the Philippines as an issue in the coming congressional campaign.

The White House spokesman yesterday afternoon emphasized that the Thompson mission was a very friendly one. He declared that the five years of agitation has developed a situation which makes it necessary that it be shown that the government completely backs up Gov. Gen. Wood in his policies there. He also said that a complete survey of the resources of the islands is absolutely necessary, both for the Filipinos themselves and for the United States. What must be found out, he suggested, is:

How education has been and is being advanced.

What is the financial status of the islands.

What is the general economic outlook and, in general, what can the United States do to aid the natives themselves.

He said that in his view it was impossible for the Secretary of War to undertake a long trip to the islands, and, after all, what is to be developed there probably can be found out much easier by an independent investigator than by an official of the government who, by the very nature of his position, is in charge of the islands.

THE LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM.

The close of the first session of this Congress is in sight, and the leaders are mapping out a tentative winding-up program. Despite the fact that much time has been consumed by the Senate in the world court controversy, the tax reduction bill and the Italian debt matter, legislation is about as far advanced in that body as usual at this stage of the session. The House has been more pushing simply because it has power to limit debate and is under better control by a steering committee. The House has passed all but two regular appropriation bills, and the Senate will catch up as soon as the Italian debt matter is out of the way.

Amid the thousands of bills introduced in both houses, comparatively few have emerged into the sunlight of discussion. The tentative program as approved by the House leaders includes: The Spanish war veterans' pension bill, the five-year building plan bill, the public highway bill, additional appropriations for the veterans' bureau, codification of the laws, the Federal employes' retirement bill and farm relief legislation.

In all probability the present session will come to a close in less than two months, when the members of both houses will start the campaign for the election of one-third of the senators and all members of the House. A large part of this session has been devoted to politics, as is usual in all sessions preceding a congressional election.

After the Italian debt matter is disposed of the Senate will take up the public buildings bill, the Parker-Watson railroad bill, the branch banking bill and the aircraft bill. The English impeachment trial may call for an extra session of the Senate.

Hardened arteries are the bitter enemies of jazz.

MAKING A RECORD.

Maj. Hesse should not be discouraged because the police department of Washington arrested only 11,275 persons in March. The month of April ought to set a higher mark. The House of Representatives on Friday adjourned over until Monday without having passed the bill, which had passed the Senate, authorizing the issuance of permits to drivers of motor cars, and there is no telling when that body will take up the measure. Meantime, any one operating an automobile may be subject to arrest for not having a license. Of course, the District authorities and the police department have indicated that no arrests of drivers are to be made unless the police are satisfied that cars are being driven by persons who never had a license. There may be plenty in this class. At any rate, the House has opened the door so that the police may exceed the number of arrests made in March.

The superintendent of police is said to be in a blue funk because the National Capital promises to make a record that will outshine that of any other big city in the number of arrests. If arrests continue to be made at the rate shown for March, by the end of the year, Maj. Hesse has figured, the total number will reach the modest figure of 110,756, or not quite a fourth of the entire population of the District.

To be sure, by far the greatest number of arrests made were for violations of the traffic laws. Out of 27,689 persons who have been taken into custody 14,454 were charged with traffic offenses.

Washington is not nearly as bad as the police department figures would appear to indicate, and other cities like New York and Chicago, where murder and other minor crimes are a fine art, should not assume that the National Capital is about to lead all other places in crime merely because its police force has been on the alert in enforcing the traffic regulations.

It works better to be kind to the wicked, but it's much more fun to denounce them.

MEASLES.

There seems to be some difference of opinion among doctors who have been making a study of the cause and possible prevention of measles. Almost every large city has reported an unusually large number of cases of this disease in the last several months. In some cities it has reached the epidemic stage. Washington has been no exception. Happily, the malady has not resulted in many deaths.

It is interesting to note the views of physicians regarding the possible spread of the disease during the year. Dr. Edward S. Godfrey, director of the division of communicable diseases of New York, says: "This will be a measles year unless the record for 22 years is broken. Measles epidemics," he adds, "occur in large cities about every two or three years. Practically everybody is susceptible to it. Adults are no exception." While measles is not apt to cause death directly, Dr. Edwards says, it prepares the way for pneumonia and other complications which are likely to result fatally. More intelligent effort, he says, will have to be given to the treatment of the disease than has been the custom during other measles years.

On the other hand, we are told that Drs. N. S. Ferry and L. W. Fisher, of Detroit, have discovered the streptococcus that causes measles, and that this organism produces a soluble toxin from which an antitoxin can be made that can be used in both preventive and curative treatment of measles. The new measles discovery is in accordance with similar results obtained by Dr. G. F. and Dr. Gladys H. Dick, of Chicago.

Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, chairman of the division of medical science of the National Research Council, says that schools should not be closed when measles is prevalent. The use of antitoxin, it is held, will prevent the spread of the disease and effect a cure when it has developed.

If, as Dr. Godfrey says, all signs indicate that this is to be a measles year, the question naturally may occur to the layman, why not utilize the antitoxin discovered by Dr. Ferry and Dr. Fisher and check the threatened spread? The old idea that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" holds just as good today as it ever did.

Be fair. It takes a lot of good sense to drive all of America's cars with so few wrecks.

IMPEACHMENT CASES.

The House of Representatives having impeached Federal Judge George W. English, of the Eastern district of Illinois, and Judge English having decided to stand trial, it is expected that the Senate will soon devote a part of its time to the unusual procedure of an impeachment trial. It is an impressive ceremony, characterized by certain quaint features which had their origin centuries ago.

The Senate has sat as a court of impeachment in eight cases. William Blount, a senator from the State of Tennessee, was impeached in 1799, but the case was dismissed when the senator resigned. John Pickering, judge of the United States district court of the district of New Hampshire, was impeached and removed from office in 1804.

Samuel Chase, associate justice of the Supreme Court, was impeached and acquitted in 1805. James H. Peck, judge of the United States district court for the district of Missouri, was impeached and acquitted in 1831. West H. Humphreys, judge of the United States district court of the district of Tennessee, was impeached and removed from office in 1862.

Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, was impeached and acquitted in 1868. William M. Belknap, Secretary of War, was impeached and acquitted in 1876. Charles Swayne, judge of the United States district court of Florida, was impeached and acquitted in 1905. Robert W. Archbald, associate justice of the United States commerce court, was impeached and removed from office in 1913.

Doubtless the old-time doctor's "bedside manner" was just pity for a patient full of blue mass pills.

FAKE DEALINGS IN FUTURES.

Senator Caraway's bill to prevent the fictitious sale of cotton and grain in future markets has been reported from the Senate committee on agriculture. The general purpose of the bill is to prevent the offering to make, or the making of, any contract for the purchase or sale of grain or cotton for future delivery, without intending that such grain or cotton shall be actually delivered or received, and to impose upon the purchaser of such a contract the obligation to accept delivery.

It penalizes any person sending or causing to be sent any message offering to make or enter into a contract prohibited by the act. It prohibits the use of the mails for the transmission of any such contract, and punishes the distribution by mail, telegraph or telephone of any false information relative to grain or cotton.

The cotton futures act of 1914, amended in 1919, is on the statute books; and in the main it has been beneficial. But the act fails to prevent fictitious trading in futures, and the grain futures act has the same failing.

The committee report on the Caraway bill says:

> The extent to which cotton is gambled in is illustrated by the report of the government, which shows that from September 1, 1925, to December 31, 1925, or four months, there were sold on the future markets by the various exchanges a total of 109,395,630 bales of cotton, with a report for December on the Chicago exchange missing, while for the whole year on these exchanges—that is, from July, 1924, until July, 1925—there was certified as tenderable on future contracts only 492,876 bales of spot cotton.

In the wheat market it has been more difficult to get the exact amount. In January, 1926, alone, there were 1,240,000,000 bushels of grain sold on the Chicago exchange. There seems to have been, from reports available, 18,048,510,000 bushels traded in from the first day of July, 1925, to the last day of January, 1926, on the Chicago exchange alone.

Every man who eats bread is today paying an enhanced price, not because the farmer may benefit from this advance, but because men cornered the wheat market in Chicago in March, 1926. The bread prices are fixed upon the highest peak of that market, although not a farmer in the United States was benefited by the temporary rise in the market.

Every one who wears clothes spun from cotton likewise pays an enhanced price for them because gamblers created a flurry in the cotton market.

The Caraway bill offers a remedy for the evil of unrestricted gambling in necessaries of life. The bill deserves the earnest consideration of Congress.

THE PITTMAN ACT.

The real purpose of what is known as the Pittman act of April 23, 1918, was to avert a financial crash in India, which, it was thought, would injure if not actually break down the line of supply on the eastern front in the world war. The government of Great Britain, through Lord Reading at Washington, had made representations to this effect; and it was proposed as a preventive of the disaster to sell to Great Britain a portion of the silver held by the United States Treasury against outstanding silver certificates.

In pursuance of the act, the Treasury broke up about 270,000,000 silver dollars, and about 200,000,000 ounces of silver bullion were sold to the British government. In the Treasury at the time were 350,000,000 silver dollars against that volume of silver certificates outstanding. To protect the silver certificates outstanding, the act provided that after the sale to Great Britain the Treasury should purchase domestic silver at the rate of $1 per ounce and 371.25 grains of pure silver for every dollar, that being the legal amount of pure silver in every silver dollar.

Some persons claim that the Treasury has evaded the full force and instruction of the act, and that further purchases of silver bullion should be made at the rate of $1 per ounce. The Treasury has purchased about 200,500,000 ounces of silver at $1 an ounce to replace the silver sold to Great Britain. When the reminting of silver dollars is completed there will be the same number of silver dollars in the Treasury as there are silver certificates in circulation. This will complete the purpose of the Pittman act.

The opponents of the proposition to compel further purchases of silver claim that if the bill to "complete purchases of silver under the Pittman act" becomes a law, the Treasury will be directed to purchase some 14,500,000 ounces of silver bullion at $1 an ounce when the market price of silver is about 68 cents an ounce. The difference between the market price and $1 an ounce on about 14,500,000 ounces is something like $5,000,000.

The real question is this: Has the Treasury completed the transactions contemplated by the Pittman act of 1918? Treasury officials seem to think it has done so.

It is easy to believe in a beneficent evolution when you compare a modern house dress with the old-fashioned Mother Hubbard.

THE TARIFF IN POLITICS.

Some of the leading Democrats seem determined to make the tariff the dominant issue in the congressional campaign if they can, notwithstanding the fact that the records of the party do not disclose many victories won on this issue. Perhaps the Democratic managers may be seizing upon the tariff as an expedient to divert attention from the prohibition question, which they fear would be an unfortunate and probably losing issue, despite the strong sentiment against the Volstead act in New York, Illinois, New Jersey and Massachusetts. Even if George Brennan should be elected to the Senate in Illinois, or the wets should win in other States, it would not by any means prove that the country favors the repeal or modification of the dry law.

The more conservative and thoughtful Democrats fully realize the danger of making prohibition an issue, and in the absence of any other question some of them feel that the tariff might as well be stressed as any other measure. It is difficult, nevertheless, to figure out how they can successfully attack the administration on the tariff, in view of the prosperity of the country under the Fordney-McCumber tariff law.

The Democrats may win a number of seats in the Senate now held by Republicans. By winning nine seats, thereby increasing their ranks to 48 members, they would be able to control if the Farmer-Labor member from Minnesota decided to vote with them and they themselves voted solidly; but if Senator Shipstead voted with the Republicans the controlling vote would be in the hands of Vice President Dawes.

The most optimistic Democrats, however, are confident they will gain more than nine members in the November election, and their confidence is not without reason. Thirty-four senators are to be elected, and of this number seven are Democrats. Of the 27 remaining there appears to be more than an even chance that the Republicans will lose more than a dozen, perhaps fifteen, which would give the Democrats a safe majority in the next Senate. From almost every point of view the Democrats appear to have an advantage; but if they should win it will not be because the people are opposed to the present tariff.

The testimony of Tariff Commissioner Dennis is a clear demonstration of the impossibility of obtaining a body of commissioners to determine in a nonpartisan manner a purely partisan or political question. Mr. Dennis, an admitted low tariff man, complains because the protection members would not agree with him and reduce the tariff rates. Mr. Dennis has a right to assume, of course, that his opinion is better than that of the other members of the commission; and they have the same right to regard his opinion as slightly inferior to their own.

The law reorganizing the welfare functions of the District government provides for the appointment of a board of public welfare and a director of the coordinated welfare work. The law was enacted as a remedy for unsatisfactory conditions. Whether the new system will prove to be an improvement on the old will depend largely upon the personnel of the board and the qualifications of the new director. No doubt the District commissioners will consider very carefully the recommendations submitted in connection with the filling of these places.

The world-weary cynicism in college isn't developed there. It's just a hangover from the age of sixteen.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By Will Rogers

The Worst Story I heard today was told to me by "Dooley" Barksdale, of Greenville, S. C. You want to stop and look this Greenville over if you are ever down that way. There is a miniature Newark. Factories? You never saw as many in your life. And a beautiful Country. Dooley himself is worth looking over. He has a lot of fine Saddle Horses out to his stock farm, and a Pack of Flea Hounds that Dooley maintains can pick up a Fox quicker than a Senator can pick up a scent of a free drink.

Here is one on Dogs that Dooley turned out of the kennel before I could duck.

"Come right on in Sambo," the old Planter called out. "He won't hurt you. Don't you know a barking Dog never bites?"

"Sho Boss, I knows that," replied the cautious colored man. "But what I don't know is jes how soon he is goin' to stop barkin'."

Not Exactly What She Expected.

PRESS COMMENT.

Looks Good.

Toronto Mail: No matter how uncouth it is, the first day of spring always looks better than the last day of winter.

Wants a Vindication.

Boston Transcript: Gov. Ma. Ferguson demands to be reelected in order that she may be vindicated, but perhaps the State of Texas wants to be vindicated, too.

An Explanation.

Philadelphia Record: The theory that Mars might be inhabited seems to be finally discredited by the announcement from astronomical observers that one-half of the planet has gone dry.

Not Improbable.

Brooklyn Eagle: Charles D. Hilles is chosen president of the Ohio New Yorkers. Grant, Hayes, Garfield, McKinley and Harding are on the Buckeye State list since the civil war. Maybe Hilles can assist in adding No. 6 in Longworth. He is a very clever politician.

The Old, Old Days.

Ohio State Journal: We are not so much worried as some of our fellow reformers seem to be by the thought of what would happen if 2.75 per cent beer, or even 4 per cent for that matter, should be legalized in this automobile age, and our memory goes back to the combination of the open saloon and the high-wheeled bicycle, and a good many of us are still here.

Pinchot's Opportunity.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: If Gov. Pinchot is as anxious as he professes to be to defeat Vare and destroy the Vare machine and its baleful influence upon Pennsylvania politics, he neglects the one step that would certainly accomplish that much-to-be-desired end. His own elimination from the senatorial contest and the transfer of whatever strength he can command to the support of Senator Pepper would accomplish the trick.

Farm Values.

New York Sun: The Department of Commerce figures that the value of farm lands and farm buildings has decreased by 25 per cent in six years. This is not satisfactory in any degree; however, it should be remembered that the valuations of 1920 were fixed on the prices farms brought in the speculative period after 1915, when a boom hit the industry and skyrocketed agricultural land prices to levels beyond reason. The recession has been severe, but it was inevitable.

"An Ill Wind."

Baltimore Sun: Estimators in the West put the cost of the recent snowstorms at something like $5,000,000, the expense items being in large part for street cleaning in Chicago and other cities. Against this indictment of the weather is to be placed the benefit which the farmers obtain. Late snows are fine fertilizers everywhere, and in the Rocky mountains also add to the stored supply which melts in spring and summer and furnishes the indispensable water for irrigation. If the cities lose $5,000,000, the farmers probably gain several times that amount.

Filling a Vacuum.

Philadelphia Inquirer: George Bernard Shaw would, of course, have to say something different. "I am extremely glad," he remarks, "that the theater at Stratford-on-Avon burned down. It was a shockingly bad theater." Would Shaw burn everything down that has outlived its period of practical utility? If so, England could have a "useful" fire every week for a number of years to come. But we don't believe he really means what he says. There is a growing conviction in our mind that when G. B. has nothing to think about he indulges in conversation.

Women in Congress.

Rocky Mountain News: Representatives of the National Woman's Party have been here moving the women—and men of understanding—to the necessity of getting women representation in Congress. They have made a very good case.

Until now women in Congress have been accidents, more or less; the present woman representatives in the House are successors to husbands or relatives. Women in Congress should be on a different basis. If out of the great number of potential women voters in the country at large there are not enough women of worth and ability to make a first-class showing in Senate and House, then equal suffrage is a misnomer and a failure; but the candidates are there if we could only get over our innate conservatism.

Vegetables and Vitamins.

New York Times: Great will be the rejoicing among the canners of vegetables over the report just issued from the laboratories of the Teachers college. It is to the effect that the process of canning does less harm to the vitamins in fresh vegetables than do those of ordinary cooking. This is in direct contradiction to the general belief; but the conclusion reached, it is said, is after an investigation made, indeed, at the request of the canners, but with a clear understanding that the results, whatever they might be, would be made public in full.

According to these researchers, they found that it was not heat, but oxidization, that destroyed the vitamins; and for oxidization the cooking done in the canneries gave less opportunity than does domestic cooking.

A Slight Difference.

Minneapolis Journal: When the railroads were returned to their owners by the government in 1920, their net operating income for that year was only $58,000,000. In 1921 the net had risen to $615,000,000, in 1922 to $776,000,000, in 1923 to $977,000,000, in 1924 to $986,000,000, and in 1925 to $1,135,000,000, the largest total in the history of railroading, but still a few dollars short of the fair return contemplated by the transportation act. There is quite a difference between $58,000,000 and $1,135,000,000. There is also quite a difference between government operation and private operation.

New Lives for Old

By GLENN FRANK

PROFESSOR E. GUYENOT, a Swiss scientist, has lately announced that after patient and prolonged experimentation he has succeeded in substituting new eyes for old in an aquatic salamander.

After removing a salamander's eyes, he has replaced them with other eyes that have, in time, established nerve connections with the salamander's brain and made it possible for the salamander to see again.

Whether this experiment will ultimately enable blind men to find new eyes for old is a matter that can only be determined by long experimentation with higher animals.

But whatever the outcome of the experimentation to which this fascinating result may lead, it suggests an interesting analogy that is worth playing with for a moment.

We are ever in need of new eyes for old in our intellectual development.

It behooves us to pay at least as much attention to our "insight" as we pay to our "sight."

In our outlook upon men and affairs we maintain clarity and health of vision only by eternal vigilance.

We sometimes become so far-sighted that we cease to be practical.

We sometimes become so near-sighted that we cease to be progressive.

Our intellectual vision as well as our physical vision alters with age.

I dined the other evening with a distinguished scholar who twenty-five years ago was hounded from his post because he was looked upon as a dangerous radical.

We were speaking of a certain young man of marked promise. The distinguished scholar who a quarter of a century ago was pilloried for his free-ranging opinions said, shaking his head, "Yes, he is able, but he is unbalanced. He belongs to that——" The organization he mentioned is promoting a rather timid and harmless program at which even moderate radicals would smile.

The great scholar's son, a lad of 25, slyly winked across the table at his father's comment.

A volume might be written on that wink.

It tells the whole story of the usual pilgrimage that men make from the brave curiosity of youth to the caution of age.

Men who keep alive intellectually are aware of this ageing of insight; just as they take measures to correct their failing physical vision, so they take measures to preserve the clarity and health of their intellectual insight.

They read; they sedulously cross-examine their opinions lest they fall victim to fixed notions; they fraternize with youth; they refuse to isolate themselves from men who differ from them.

There are a thousand things that may be to a man's mind what spectacles are to his eyes—correctives of false vision. The wise man bestows care upon the eyes of his mind.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Senator Reed on Italy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is with a sense of great surprise that people must have read the statement of Senator Reed which appeared in The Washington Post in which it is said that "The American soldiers who were put into the line helped turn back the Germans after the Italian soldiers had turned their backs and fled.

Senator Reed evidently ignores the most elementary events of the war. The American soldiers on the Italian front hardly reached 6,000 men (two regiments) which, compared with the 5,000,000 Italian soldiers, 2,000,000 of whom, scattered throughout the front, could not really have had the decisive action claimed by the American Senator. He must also remember that the stop of the Austrians after the Caporetto defeat was due entirely to the Italian troops and that no allies directly participated in this military operation.

If only Senator Reed could remember the eleven victorious battles of the Carso, the Piave battle and the final victory of Vittorio Veneto, the influence of which was decisive for the allied armies!

Senator Reed should have known the fall of 600,000 Italians who lost their lives for the common cause. The defeat of the English army at St. Quentin was far worse than the Caporetto defeat, but no one has ever doubted English honor.

Disgusted With the Senate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The United States Senate and those in the galleries were treated on Wednesday afternoon to one of the worst exhibitions of poor taste that it has been their punishment to endure for many a long day. Scarcely a day passes that in some way Senator Lodge is not missed, but Wednesday we missed more than ever the presence of that calm, dignified gentleman, who by a few words, could bring back any offender to a realizing sense of the dignity of his position as a senator of the United States.

That any one could, with the Italian debt settlement before the Senate, read from the Nation an article, supposedly witty, ridiculing not only the debt settlement but the Italian nation itself, seems utterly incomprehensible to any right-thinking American.

While the comparison between the debt settlement and a recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission seemed to soothe the soreness of a few men recently defeated in a hard-fought legislative battle, it is only just to say these were the only ones who seemed to enjoy the situation.

Had the case been reversed and America treated in Italy in a similar official manner, the press of the United States would have howled its execrations, and no one would have howed louder than those who laughed on Wednesday.

Wednesday's exhibition made my blood boil, for I love my country and am jealous of its good name.

The windows of your home should be enchanting! They should reflect the changing beauty of the outside world—misty Spring mornings, flaming sunsets, the brave pageant of the passing seasons.

They look upon friend and stranger alike—and the glance is an inviting or a forbidding one—more significant than you realize.

We Need 30 Extra Clothing Salesmen

For our eighth annual sale of Men's Hot Weather Suits, which takes place next week

We are now getting ready for our eighth annual sale of men's hot weather suits—an event that has been town-famous since 1918. In order to give good service we will require about 30 experienced clothing salesmen to help us out for several days. For men who can qualify, a temporary opening may result in a permanent position.

The sale will be held this year in our Men's Bargain Annex, 613 E Street, because of the additional space (5,000 square feet) which this building affords.

Apply Saturday at the Employment Office, Third Floor, Pacific Building, After 9:15

WHITTEMORE IN FRENZY OF RAGE AT BUFFALO

Kicks and Lashes at Camera Men; Threatens to Send 6 Pals to the Chair.

MISSING BANDIT IS TAKEN

Buffalo, N. Y., April 2 (By A. P.).—Richard Reese Whittemore came back to Buffalo today to face trial for the murder of two bank employes in a $93,000 robbery here last October. His arrival was signalized by a display of viciousness seldom witnessed even by the police whose daily duties caused them to be in continual contact with criminals.

"I'll kick you all over the station," he screamed when a photographer attempted to take his picture and suiting action to his words, he lashed out in all directions with his feet and his one free hand. The crowded station was convulsed with excitement as the officers subdued their prisoner. The photographer got no pictures.

"Before I burn all the rest of the six in this Buffalo job will burn with me," he told Detective Chief Austin W. Roche on the trip from New York. Within eight hours, the Buffalo police received word that the last known member of the Whittemore gang, Morris Weinzimmer, known as Zimmer, had been arrested in Cleveland, Ohio. Weinzimmer is believed by the police to have been the driver of the bandit car, in which the robbers made their get-away from the scene of the Bank of Buffalo holdup.

After lodging Whittemore in the city jail, Chief Roche declared the prisoner was only the first of six men who would be tried for their lives and convicted here. He said Anthony Paladino, Leon Kraemer, Jake Kraemer, "Shuffles" Goldberg, and "Zimmer," members of the gang, would all be tried.

"Strangler" Lewis Scores Draw in Court

Chicago, April 2 (By A. P.).—A free gate and no purse marked Ed "Strangler" Lewis' latest appearance as a heavyweight grappler today. The "Strangler" and Lowell L. Weber, a 52-year-old broker, scored a draw before Municipal Judge Padden.

"Call it a draw," said Judge Padden, "and I would suggest that Mr. Lewis give the gentleman tickets for his next match."

Lewis and Weber, who had staged a battle in a snow-drifted street when their automobiles scraped fenders, then shook hands and posed for photographers.

Communism Essays Barred in Schools

San Francisco, April 2 (By A. P.).—Children attending schools in California can not be asked to write essays on the subject of communism, Attorney General U. S. Webb ruled today. Webb held the writing of such essays would necessitate a study of a subject which is taboo in this country.

New Favors Private Air Mail Management

Chicago, April 2 (By A. P.).—Postmaster General Harry S. New said today that the time is at hand when the government can step out of the air-mail business and let private interests gradually take over the service.

Mr. New believes the air-mail route between Chicago and St. Louis, to be inaugurated April 15, will be a success.

Banker Found Dead in Well.

Greenville, Mo., April 2 (By A. P.).—Edward M. Smith, 57, president of the defunct Wayne County Bank, was found dead today in 6 feet of water at the bottom of an abandoned well on his farm. Relatives said he was in ill health and had been worrying over financial affairs.

Mothers, Your Manifold Duties Require Strength

Mrs. G. V. LaClair

Bellingham, Wash.—"As a tonic, I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the very best any woman can take. Following motherhood it just seemed it was impossible for me to get back my natural strength. I was weak and so nervous I could not sleep. My back ached and I had pains thru my sides. I was just a physical and nervous wreck. My mother had found the 'Favorite Prescription' very beneficial and persuaded me to take it and it completely built me up in health and strength, my nerves were good, I could sleep well and all the pains and aches left my sides and back. In fact, I felt like a new woman."—Mrs. G. V. LaClair, 1910 G St.

BISHOP WILL OCCUPY TRINITY CHURCH PULPIT

Easter Sermon at Cathedral Will Be Preached by Dean Bratenahl.

AUXILIARY WILL MEET

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman will preach the Easter morning service at Trinity Diocesan church, Third and C streets northwest, at 11 o'clock.

Trinity church is under the direct jurisdiction of the bishop and it is his custom to preach from its pulpit from time to time on special festivals when his services are not required at the cathedral. In the absence of a regular minister, the Rev. William Curtis White, formerly rector of Washington parish, is acting as vicar of Trinity Diocesan church.

The Very Rev. C. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, will preach at the cathedral at the 11 o'clock service, and Bishop Freeman will be heard at the 4 o'clock service which will be broadcast by station WCAP. More than 10,000 visitors and worshipers journeyed ot the cathedral close last Easter.

The annual convention of the Junior Order of the Daughters of the King of the Episcopal Church in the diocese, will be held in St. John's church, Potomac and O streets northwest, Wednesday at 5:30 p. m.

A sale of fancy work will be held at the Episcopal Church home, 3315 Wisconsin avenue, Thursday from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The articles sold have been made by the residents of the home. The object of the sale is to raise money for the building fund.

The president of St. John's university of Shanghai, China, the Rev. Francis L. H. Pott, will visit Washington shortly and will make an address in the parish hall of St. Paul's church on Twenty-third street at 8 o'clock on April 12.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Episcopal Church in the diocese will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Christ church, Sixth and G streets southeast. At this meeting final preparations will be completed for the service to be held in Christ church, Georgetown, next Sunday at 8 p. m. for the presentation of the united thank offering.

Baptism to Be Given At St. Margaret's

In accordance with an ancient custom of the Apostolic church, baptism will be administered in St. Margaret's church, Connecticut avenue and Bancroft place northwest, today, Holy Saturday, at 5 p. m.

In the very early days of the Christian church, when it was the custom in the West, as it still is in the East, to regard baptism and confirmation as two parts of the same rite, catechumens were kept waiting until just before Easter, when the neophytes were baptized and received the laying on of hands and were clad in white robes which they continued to wear to church every day for a week thereafter. Though in Western Christendom baptism and confirmation have been separated since about the thirteenth century, the custom of stressing baptism on Easter eve continues.

Series of Lectures Will Open Tuesday

Baron Eugene Fersen will give a series of four free lectures at the Playhouse, 1814 N street northwest. The first of these lectures will be Tuesday, April 6, "Does the Spirit Fight Matter?"; Wednesday, April 7, "Do the Dead Come Back to Life Again?"; Thursday, April 8, "Problems of Modern Marriage," and Friday, April 9, "Your Success." Lectures will be at 8:15 p. m., and admission is free to the public.

The baron's teachings have been termed an outline of scientific research in developing man's latent powers through contact with laws of nature.

"Easter 26 Years Ago and Today—An Anniversary Sermon," will be the theme of the Rev. EARLY TRAINING

"Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it."—Prov. 22:6.

WHEN did you first learn the principles of a Christian Life? Should a child be compelled to grope its way through darkness seeking a just life? When a child is learning to write, it is extremely hard for it to hold the pen and to write properly; and this is because of the child's ignorance of the art of writing, which can only be dispelled by persistent effort and practice until, at last, it becomes natural and easy to hold the pen properly and to write correctly. Do you know what influences are at work on your child from outside sources which are giving it the wrong ideas or suggestions of life. Do you know what seeds are being sown which will bring forth their fruit later on. The church offers to train your children in the principles of life and their mission in this world, and supports them in their efforts to carry out these principles.

Start your children to church early in their lives that they may be properly instructed and fortified for the trials and temptations of life.

Cruickshank Wins Golf Title

Leads by Stroke in North and South Open Tourney.

Fred McLeod Sixth, Armour Finishes Seventh.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2 (By A. P.).—Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, today won the United North and South open golf championship here, leading the field in medal play at the end of the 72-holes with a score of 293.

Cruickshank's victory, however, was not an easy one for only one stroke separated him from Arthur Yates, MacDonald Smith and Tom Harmon, all of who strove desperately to overtake the New Yorker in the afternoon round. The winner faltered at the start of the final round when he required a 40 going out, but a sensational comeback with 34 won the title for him.

Cruickshank was in the lead throughout the play, but it was only by his below par return in the last nine that saved him from being headed.

YATES, present North and South amateur champion, was at the heels of the New York player and his 38, 35—73 card this morning put him within a notch of third place. Macdonald Smith, of New York, defending champion, set the pace for the final round.

That was at the eight where his tee shot of 166 yards dropped into the cup for an ace. A bad lie on the fairway of the thirteenth and overplaying the hole at the short seventeenth, however, were chances he lost to overhaul Cruickshank.

Walter Hagen, professional champion of America, who entered the tournament as the favorite, finished with a 299, tied with Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., Fred McLeod, also of Washington, was a single stroke better than his fellow townsman when the play ended.

Cruickshank's card follows:

Morning—
Out ..... 4 4 5 4 5 4 3 5 4—38
In ..... 4 4 4 4 5 3 5 3 4—36—74
Afternoon—

Yale Trounces Old Liners, 16 to 4

Nihiser, Bromley and Mills Fail to Check Hitting.

Noble and Snyder Get Homers; Shoop Tight in Pinches.

POMMELING the offerings of five University of Maryland moundsmen, especially those of Nihiser, Mills and Bromley, Yale romped over the Old Line diamonders, 16 to 4, in a hectic game in Byrd stadium yesterday. Wildness of the Terrapin hurlers, who passed a total of 13 and hit a couple, also aided the Bulldog cause. Both teams turned in creditable fielding exhibitions. Shoop, who pitched the whole game for Yale, although yielding eight bases on balls, always had the situation in hand, and Maryland batsmen were unable to consistently nick his offerings, getting but five safeties.

Yale lost no time getting busy with the stick and piled up five runs in the first inning on Noble's home run, Lindley's double, five walks and a hit batsman, Nihiser, who started for the Terrapins on the hill, and Mills, who succeeded him, had both been shunted to the showers before the inning was over, and Bromley, the third pitcher, retired the visitors.

THE New Haven Collegians began to get rough with Bromley in the second inning, but he got by this session through aid of a double play, with damage of only one run. In the third inning, however, Yale put the game in the bat bag, four successive singles with two walks yielding 5 runs.

Caldwell, Lindley and Noble led the Yale attack. Caldwell got two triples and two singles in six times at bat; Lindley garnered a pair of singles, a double and a walk in six tries and Noble got a home run, double, single and two walks in a half dozen attempts.

Snyder for Maryland got a home run when his hit bounded far over McClellan's head. Davis was the only man for Maryland to get more than one hit. He got two singles.

ROCK CREEK'S LINKS ARE OPENED

Congressional Quartet First to Play Over Remodeled Course.

ACCORDING to the calendar the sun rose yesterday morning at 5:53 o'clock. It was, therefore, just seven minutes after sunrise when the quartet of golf players who opened the season at the Rock Creek park public course started to drive from the first tee.

The ground, after a cold night, was slightly frozen but the enthusiasm of the players seemed to warm the atsmosphere, for when they had finished playing thirteen holes, when it was time for breakfast, the turf was soft and slow.

In the quartet were Senator Wesley A. Jones, of Washington, and Representative Oliver, of Alabama, paired against Edwin A. Halsey, of the sergeant at arms' office of the United States Senate, and James D. Preston, superintendent of the Senate press gallery.

THE statesmen had it all their own way so far as the game was concerned, and won without a struggle. Halsey won one hole and this was also Preston's limit, wherefore the match had no thrills worthy of record.

The course was crowded throughout the day and the golfers universally commended the reconstruction of the course and the conveniences which have been installed in the remodeled clubhouse. Frank White, Treasurer of the United States, was one of the notables who played over the course.

Encounter Maryland U. Today

LACROSSE, as it is played in Great Britain and America, will be on tap here this afternoon when the Oxford-Cambridge team, of England, and the University of Maryland twelve clash at Central High school stadium. Play will begin at 3 o'clock, but there will be a dual track meet between the Virginia Military Institute and Maryland teams at 1:30 that should provide a good appetizer for the international clash that will follow.

Those who travel to Central High school stadium will see lacrosse played by topnotchers in the game in England and the United States. Maryland's team won the championship of the southern division of the Intercollegiate Lacrosse league last year, while the Oxford-Cambridge twelve represents the pick of the two big English universities, which naturally attract the leading talent in the British isles.

It is probable that the invaders will excel the Old Liners somewhat in technique in handling the crosse, more commonly called stick, but it is equally as probable that the Britons will not match the Marylanders in speed or in aggressiveness.

HOWEVER, the Oxford-Cambridge team, which will be playing its first game of 14 in which it will figure within the month in the Eastern section of America, will be in its freshest condition, and being anxious to make an auspicious start, doubtless will put its best foot forward in the combat here.

Both teams practiced at College park yesterday, the rival squads taking the field at the same time. Neither did anything more than some tuning-up work, as the Oxford-Cambridge players went through a strenuous drill with the Crescent A. C. stickmen in Brooklyn yesterday, while the Old Liners were putting in their last hard licks at College park.

A notable gathering is expected to witness the contest today. The British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard, who will have guests at the game, will entertain members of both teams at the embassy after the contest. Sir Esme will make a brief address to the players before they take the field.

There should be plenty of good competition in the track meet. Thomas, Sheriff, Matthews and

Playground Athletes Start Training Today

Youthful athletes of Washington will begin their spring track training today on the Plaza playgrounds under the supervision of the municipal playground department. Boys of graded school and junior high age desiring to get into condition for the various meets are expected to turn out today in large numbers.

Playground employes will be on hand to see that the youngsters take things easy on the first day and no competition will be permitted. The jumping pits have been repaired and the track placed in fair shape for this time of the year in preparation for the practices.

All who attend the drills are to report to one of the officials his age, weight and school.

TIGERS MEET HILLTOPS TODAY

Vermont Faces C. U.; Gallaudet to Play Practice Game.

A TRIO of college baseball games are on the books for local teams today.

On the Georgetown field the Hilltoppers play host to Princeton. Vermont drops in on Catholic university out at Brookland, and Gallaudet will play a practice game with the Hilltop A. C.

Both Georgetown and Catholic U. are anxious to start anew their winning streaks, which were jolted by Yale and Lafayette, respectively, Thursday. Gallaudet won its last start, defeating Briarley Hall, and the Kendall Greeners are out to make it two in a row.

The whole Georgetown team watched Princeton defeat Lehigh on the Hilltop lot yesterday afternoon, and consequently have a pretty good line on them. In all likelihood Coach Kopf will send Pete Burch to the mound against the Tigers this afternoon, and if Pete is right the New Jersey collegians will look at some sweet pitching.

Cuban Hurler Puzzles Nats

Palermo Allows Only 4 Hits to Washington Team.

Leibold and Other Former Nats Play With Bushers.

By N. W. BAXTER,
Sports Editor, The Post.

QUITMAN, Ga., April 2.—"I have a southpaw pitcher who ought to be in the big leagues," remarked Sergt. Hank Gowdy, now managing the Columbus team, in the course of some idle chatter with which he was entertaining the visiting brethren from Washington this morning. Having said which, Sergt. Gowdy trotted the aforementioned hurler out and proved the verity of his assertion.

Emilio Palermo, citizen of Cuba lauded by Sergt. Gowdy, had just a little more stuff than the Washington batters could fathom. He gave them three runs in one inning but did not trifle with the boys a other times. His team mates go six runs through extensive and timely hitting, so there you are.

It was not entirely Palermo Sergt. Gowdy has put morale into a club that contains a good many men who either failed to make the major league grade or are on the way back down hill. Washington players greeted old acquaintances on the Columbus club in Nemo Leibold, Mike Menosky and Ralph Miller, the worst third baseman that ever played in the world series. Another familiar face and figure was that of Paul Strand, the Salt Lake wonder who brought new lines of grief to the face of Connie Mack two years ago.

AND yet today it was the little dogs' day to howl. Thirteen hits to four spelt the big edge in the ball game and enabled the has-beens to laugh at the men who are still in big time. But for the one inning when Palmero gave three bases on balls in a row the Nationals could not hit their stride. They got a man or two on occasionally, but not around.

Not even when Stanley Harris and Goose Goslin got on the bases and ran wild could they produce anything but a laugh. Bucky was at second and the Goose on first in the fifth.

Harris tried once taking a long lead, and got back to second only through a break of luck. He tried again, and again he scrambled back to second ahead of the ball. But that time Goslin was trapped between first and second for an out.

It was that way most of the game. Washington got an occasional man on. Goslin, for instance, walked four times, but getting them across home plate was something else again.

Ferguson was not the pitcher to stop Columbus, either. Along about the third inning the association team had a field day, and when the Washington hurler finished out his

EVERGLADE, AIDED BY M'ATEE, WINS BOWIE FEATURE

Jack Horgan Takes First At 25-1

Camouflage and Sea Sand Disappoint Followers.

Jacques Triumphs in Third by Margin of Nose.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

MRS. A. SWENKE, of Baltimore, scored her first victory of the Bowie meeting yesterday with Everglade, in the feature race, the Terminal purse, and had to displace a mare, Golden Billows, deemed almost invincible on the Prince Georges track when running with this kind of field, and she has to thank for the victory the intelligent horsemanship of L. McAtee, who took the son of Everest so far in front from the barrier that Golden Billows could not quite catch him. But the decision was close, only a neck being the margin of the victory.

Golden Billows was not the only horse that Bowie crowds almost swear by to fall by the wayside during the perfect spring afternoon. Camouflage, favorite, was beaten off in the third soon after old Sea Sand had provided a diaster for the talent in the third race.

The track, though heavy, was much improved, and if no rain falls today, the course will be fast for the appearance of Single Foot in the feature. Another holiday crowd was out, and James F. O'Hara, general manager, was wondering what he would do with the Saturday jam.

THERE was a heavy plunge on Everglade at the last minute in the muteuls, much of which was come-back money. Golden Billows, according to the indicator, was the decided choice up to within five minutes of the start in this 7 furlong dash.

Then Everglade's price began to fall, until he was made favorite at $1.15 to $1.00.

Kanduit, of the Bedwell stable, showed a decided penchant for running, and for a while was close to the leaders, but Golden Billows wore her down, and began a game but losing fight to overhaul Everglade. Harvey on the Tansor mare, made his move a little too late, and McAtee kept Everglade going a little longer than she wanted to travel.

The racing opened with the longest priced winner of the meeting. The International Stable picked a tough spot for Jack Horgan, a colt little regarded in the mutuels, and he began the system of nose victories, which held good in several of the races. This outsider paid 25 to 1 for beating a large field of 2-year-olds, and came from behind to wear down Post Horn, which races for Walter J. Salmon.

Maiben had taken Post Horn to the front when the flag fell, showing the way by a good margin at the half, but probably overdid things, for Post Horn tired in the stretch, and Jack Horgan came from fifth position to win under a strong ride by Morris. Half a length behind this pair was Edith D., a filly formerly named Rinso, to get third money.

NEXT in the matter of long odds to win was Gov. Smith, which won the last race, and paid $34.80. He beat Island Fairy and Try Again. The sixth race went to Jay Reynolds' Teluride, defeating Invictus and Billy Mann.

Jacques won the third race by a nose from Buttercup in the most gruelling stretch run of the meeting. Hobson was third. Sea Sand, the favorite, made a determined struggle, but this old campaigner evidently has gone back since last year.

G. W. Foreman's filly Night Shade won the fourth race in a nose from Gunny Sack, with Richard Pending's Courses third. Camouflage was never a contender. Night Shade, V. Stott in the saddle, led all the way, with Gunny Sack soon joining the issue with her. Had Gunny Sack not stumbled in the last stride, he would have won.

Twelve horses started in the second race for 3-year-old maidens. Lanark was installed favorite, but failed to get in the money. G. W. Lee's filly, Cliff, overlooked in the betting, won by a length and a half from Frank Richardson's colt, Dubric. Columbia 2d was third.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

—By BERT E. COLLYER

OPPERMAN.

Good morning, Glory and how-do-you-do-drop? This is about the juiciest morsel ever served over a platter. H. G. Bedwell, who ran Sir Barton against Man o' War, saddles the above named racer in the fifth spasm and it is really a shame to take the money. That race on Thursday was just a pipe opener. If you don't get all you want here, then you are solid ivory from the shoulders up.

Harry Payne Whitney will shoot a couple of juveniles at the boys in the opener and his pair doubtless will rule the choice. For that reason, I am going to string with the W. J. SALOMON ENTRY. ENNUI has had racing experience and this is liable to be the determining factor in the race.

In the second, the Winfrey boys are going to shoot with CAMOUFLAGE. Harvey will be in the saddle and this means a capable ride. They have WATTS in the third, TESTER in the fourth and BLUE HILL racing against OPPERMAN in the fifth. It will be a busy day for the Winfrey crowd and Jockey Harvey, but they should annex at least one race during the afternoon.

The third race is a claiming affair and KNIGHT OF MERCI II may prove a genuine sleeper.

SINGLE FOOT is my choice for the Springtime handicap, while WILKESBARRE will be mighty hard to beat in the sixth.

For the last race THE ROLL CALL has only to leave the barrier in order to get the money.

SPATS looks good down Tampa way in the opener.

The lads at the course who are wise to all that is going on, send the happy chatter that he will make every post a winning one. Jockey Colin will doubtless be in the saddle and he is not a bad rider by any means.

But again I say just wager all the elephants in Africa that OPPERMAN is coming home on the chin strap.

Snodgrass' Selections

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

The Maryland public today will have its first opportunity to see SINGLE FOOT, its favorite horse, in action this year. The son of Wrack, which celebrated his first start here as a 2-year-old by setting a new track record, will start in the Sprint handicap, at five and a half furlongs, with 126 pounds, and it is not difficult to figure him the winner, and to foretell that he will be a hot favorite.

This race has called out a good field, and from his effort Thursday to take the place in the Twin Cities handicap, SENATOR NORRIS should be the contender. LIEUTENANT 2D should be the third horse over TESTER. TESTER is an overrated horse. He makes fast time occasionally, but the races he wins are usually in cheaper fields than this. LIEUTENANT 2D is in top form. Harry Rites has SINGLE FOOT READY, and he should lead all the way. He concedes 9 pounds to SENATOR NORRIS.

SINGLE FOOT worked five furlongs handily in 1:04 3-5 yesterday for this race.

The usual half-mile dash for 2-year-olds begins the day. H. P. Whitney will show two more of his fancy juveniles in this event, FLORIAN and CAPRICORN. They are the best offspring of the French-bred horse, Dis Donc, of which Mr. Whitney has a high opinion. These two are picked to win on what has been said around the track about them. Having never started, of course there is no form on which to select the entry.

It is a well-worn remark here that Whitney furnishes the 2-year-old favorites for Bowie, and it is probable that the price will be short. W. J. Salmon has an entry which may be well considered, especially ENNUI, which won impressively at Miami. The other is TRIPALONG. SPHERE has the rail position, and is by the derby winner, Meridian.

The second race is as hard as they make them. This is the kind of a field that BRIGGS BUCHANAN, a failure, might beat down. DONARITA, which ran a bad race yesterday, may like the longer distance, and get the place. GAYLY has a chance for third. CAMOUFLAGE can not be given a look in after his fiasco yesterday. There is really nothing reliable in the field.

The third race is made up of fair horses. TEN SIXTY on her winter form, looks best, though she will have ST. VALENTINE to beat. The last named has not been out since last spring, when he won three races. He belongs to J. Edwin Griffith, owner of Single Foot and Cancer. KNIGHT OF MERCI II has a chance for third money. TEN SIXTY had a strenuous winter campaign and is fit. MABEL C. will run well.

H. G. Bedwell seems to have placed OPPERMAN in a soft spot in the fifth race. He won four races in Maryland last year, and is fit for the test today. CLIQUE is the dangerous one. He beat a good field in Miami. The distance suits both. BLUE HILL, just off a hard beating, should be third. There is nothing else outside of these three that seems to have a chance.

In the sixth race, notwithstanding the good race on opening day of VOLCANO, VAN PATRICK is the pick to win. The dry track will not suit VOLCANO like the mud in his effort Thursday, when he was only beaten a nose by Rupee. GRAY GABLES, coupled with OPPERMAN, should shut out the others.

The ROLL CALL'S short race Thursday against Carefree should benefit him in his trial for the seventh race. It is a longer distance today, and there is no Carefree behind him to run him down. CLEARVIEW and MOON MAGIC looks like the contenders. The last named prefers the mud.

Willie Munden likely will be seen in the saddle. He was scheduled to ride yesterday, but did not fulfill his engagements as given on the program. He will be a popular rider here. His victories on Carlaris at Tia Juana have given his stock a boost.

A forecast of the entries for the Havre de Grace stakes which close today shows that the strongest fields in the history of racing there will be engaged. The Glen Riddle and Jeffords strings and other large stables will begin the campaign there, and Preakness and Derby candidates will get their preparation for the classics.

H. C. Bostwick also will race a string of 22 horses at that track and in New York.

James Rowe, sr., chief trainer of the Harry Payne Whitney stable, came down from the Brookdale farm to see his 2-year-olds run at Bowie.

BUSINESS NINE DEFEATS DEVITT PREP BY 11 TO 5

Stenogs Bat In Pinches To Win

9 Pitchers Are Used in Game; Many Misplays.

Yeatman, Dannemiller Clout Ball Hard; First Game.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

BUSINESS High Baseball team can be expected to cut a figure in the coming high school series if yesterday's showing is a criterion. Without having indulged in batting practice this year, the Stenographers exhibited a punch in the pinches yesterday which carried them to an 11-to-5 victory over Devitt Prep, in the first local scholastic game of the year on the Monument grounds.

Coach Lynn Woodward was not present. He has been called to his home in Indiana, where his wife is ill. The team was in charge of Capt. Yaffey, who handled the players well, using good judgment in giving practically every would-be pitcher a chance without losing the game.

While in some instances, it was a typical "first game of the season," there was much interest manifested. The score was tied from the third inning to the eighth, when Bastable, who had been heaving a fine game, developed a wild streak, which, with a hit by Artis with three on, and two errors, netted Business four runs.

FIVE pitchers took the hill for the Stenographers, namely: R. Jones, Shreve, Orrison, Marowsy and Slye. Shreve, a hefty left-hander, did the best work and was also given the best support.

More alert fielding on the part of his mates and Bastable would have gone the distance for Devitt, although he was hit hard in spots. Miller and Gredelein were wild, while Bowling, the fourth Devitt hurler, fanned the only batter he faced.

Yeatman led the attack for the Business nine with three hits, including a single, a double and a triple. On another occasion he lined out to center field. Dannemiller clouted a homer to left field for Devitt and also contributed a single and a double.

Suzanne's Engagement To Poet Announced

Paris, April 2 (By A. P.).—Suzanne Lenglen is engaged to be married to Jacques Brindejones Offenbach, poet and writer, and grandson of Jacques Offenbach, the famous composer of the "Tales of Hofmann," it was learned today.

The temperamental queen of the courts chose her intended husband outside the ranks of tennis players, but M. Offenbach is considered one of the most delightful poets of the younger generation of French letters.

In spite of official denials, Mlle. Lenglen is known, during the last five years, to have frowned upon the proposals of dukes, counts, earls and American millionaires.

allotted five innings eleven hits had been hammered out. Kelly in the last three innings was hit safely but twice.

Roger Peckinpaugh started at shortstop, but went out after three innings, due to being hit on the arm by a ground ball.

COLUMBUS was the first to score. In the second inning Paul Strand, Connie Mack's expensive bust, singled on a bad bounce through Peck. He scored on Miller's fielder's choice and Menosky's single. The rally was choked off with the bases full when Ballinger failed to get the ball out of the infield for the third out.

Palermo went to pieces in the third and walked Rice, S. Harris and Goslin with neatness and dispatch, after two were out. Moon Harris dropped the ball into short center and brought in three runs. Judge was called out on a social error by the home-town umpire, who insisted that Regan's play in stopping Joe's line drive deserved an out, whether it was actually one or not.

Columbus took a liking to Ferguson in the last of the third. Six hits brought in three runs. Five of them were clean clouts to the outfield.

In the seventh inning Columbus increased its count to 6. Nemo Leibold opened with a single and Horn was sent in to run for him. Horn scored when Goslin lost Grimes' hit and allowed it to go for three bases. The latter scored on Ralph Miller's fielder's choice.

Princeton Slams Out Win Over Lehigh

A mighty circuit wallop to the right field ravine in the fourth inning by "Deacon" Rhees, former Tech High star, started princeton off on a scoring spree yesterday in its game with Lehigh on the Georgetown diamond and when the Tiger finished for the day he had accumulated 10 tallies to his opponents' 4.

They were blanked the first three innings but dented the plate every inning thereafter, scoring a pair in the fourth, fifth and sixth, one in the seventh and a trio in the eighth.

EAGLES PLAY ALOYS AT ARCADE

Game Tomorrow Will Practically Decide Titular Race.

PROVIDING there's any fur left on the District basketball championship race, it should fly tomorrow night. On the neutral Arcade floor, Aloysius' hard-plugging tossers engage the Anacostia Eagles in the "rubber" game of the three-game series between those teams, which may prove the means of settling titular series.

In the first meeting the Eagles invaded the Aloysius home court, the Gonzaga gymnasium, and the Birds carried off the honors and the Eagle rooters went home with bulging pockets and happy hearts.

The came the second clash, and the Eagles didn't fly so high in Congress Heights. Aloysius pulled the feathers out of the Eagle's tail and threw them back in the faces of the Anacostia rooters. It was the first and only defeat for the Heights crew locally this season.

ALL-STAR PIN FIVES MEET TONIGHT

Crack King Pin Club and Convention Hall Clash.

THE much-heralded series between the King Pin All-Stars and the Convention Hall All-Stars will get under way tonight at 7:30 o'clock, when these two crack quintets of maple topplers clash on the Convention hall drives, in the first block of their 10-game series. The final half of the series will take place on the King Pin alleys one week later, with total pins for both blocks determining the winner.

"AL" WORK will probably lead the attack for John Pappas's aggregation. The followers of the downtown team have become more confident in the last week, with the sudden return to form of the veteran south-paw, as was evidenced when he turned in a 405 total, while the Joseph Phillips club set a District mark with 1,831.

"Bill" Wood, manager of the King Pin team, holder of the 3,116 record, which they set up in a match game with Baltimore, will rely on his regular five, consisting of "Red" Megaw, Earl McPhilomy, Howard Campbell, Glenn Wolstenholme and Max Rosenberg. These bowlers are considered by many critics to be the cream of the city.

Embarrassing eruption on face disappears when Resinol is used

Hadley, Mass., May 28:—"For some time I had been troubled with an eruption on my face which nothing I tried seemed to relieve. I had read about Resinol and decided to give it a trial. For a week I bathed my face every night with warm water and Resinol Soap and then applied the Ointment. At the end of that time the eruption had entirely disappeared. I cannot praise the Resinol products too highly." (Signed) Lillian Hull.

bring about a compromise between the 48 signatory states and America.

The league's reason for objecting to separate negotiations between each of the signatory states and the United States is said to be that this method makes it certain that no compromise, acceptable to the 48 states, can be reached by this laborious process.

Call Coolidge Instigator.

The complications arising from the reservations are apparently tending to cause a split between President Coolidge and the Democratic senators who acted as the President's special leaders in obtaining ratification by the Senate. These Democrats are not willing to admit that responsibility for the fiasco—if the resolution of ratification turns out to be an international fiasco—should rest on Democratic shoulders or on the Senate. Senator Swanson, author of the reservations, believes the responsibility is now clearly up to President Coolidge.

"In ratifying the protocol," Senator Swanson said yesterday, "the Senate made President Coolidge a negotiator for American adherence under the terms of the resolution of ratification.

"It is for the President to decide whether he thinks it wisest to negotiate directly with the 48 signatory States or whether he will negotiate with them collectively at Geneva. He is the negotiator."

Note That Surprised U. S. Called Routine at Geneva

Geneva, April 2 (By A. P.).—League of Nations circles expressed astonishment tonight on the receipt of dispatches from Washington saying that the action of the league in sending a circular letter to the members of the world court inviting them to a conference to consider the American reservations had caused surprise in official circles of the American Capital.

Officials of the league said that however Washington may have felt about the council's original decision to convoke a conference for the purpose of discussing the reservations put forward by the United States in connection with her becoming a member of the court and the invitation to the United States to participate in the discussions, there can be no justification for surprise over the actual dispatch of the invitations.

These officials explained that the sending out of the circular letter to the court signatories was nothing but routine procedure called for by the decision of the council.

The most important section of the letter reads as follows:

"The council has decided, in the first place, to propose to all governments which have received from the United States a copy of the Senate's resolutions 'that replies should be made indicating the difficulty of proceeding by way of a mere exchange of notes and the need of a general agreement.'

"In the second place the council has decided to invite all the governments signatories of the protocol and the government of the United States to appoint delegations to participate in the discussion contemplated by the above-mentioned recommendation and in the framing of a new agreement at a meeting to be held in Geneva September 1."

League officials remarked that the reference in the circular letter to the nature of the reply the signatories should make to the United States was merely the text of a phrase contained in Sir Austen Chamberlain's report, which was adopted unanimously by the league council.

manufacture to seizure and forfeiture, are also provided. The registration of buildings and apparatus set up to make the manufacture of beer possible and the imposition of heavier penalties, up to $25,000 on those who make, sell or transport liquor made from denatured alcohol or rum, is provided in other sections.

Gen. Andrews appeared highly elated yesterday when the bill was introduced in Congress and declared that, following passage of these amendments, greater progress could be expected in the drying up of the country.

Wets and Drys Clash Over Witness Question

The decision yesterday of the subcommitee of the Senate judiciary committee to call only government witnesses to the prohibition hearings that commence Monday precipitated a sharp row between the Senate "wets" and "drys."

Senator Edge, of New Jersey, charged the subcommittee with "splitting hairs in favor of the drys," and declared their action would prevent the wets from presenting valuable testimony before the hearings.

By a vote of 4 to 1, the subcommittee decided that it lacked the authority to subpena any witnesses excepting those of the government. Under the ruling of the committee, if the "wet" senators care to put their witnesses on the stand, they must see to it that the expense of the appearance of the witnesses are paid from other sources than by government funds, unless the witnesses are government witnesses.

Senator Means, chairman of the committee, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, declared in support of the committee's actions that the committee was merely following precedent.

BASIS OF BANK CREDIT EXPLAINED OVER RADIO

E. J. McQuade and John M. Riordon in Dialogue for Borrowers' Benefit.

NAME CONVENTION GROUP

By F. W. PATTERSON.

"Character, capital, capacity and collateral are the four C's of bank credit," said E. J. McQuade, vice president of the Liberty National Bank, last night, broadcasting in a dialogue with John M. Riordon, cashier of the Bank of Commerce & Savings, in connection with the educational campaign being conducted under auspices of the American Institute of Banking. "Our loanable funds do not belong to the bank, but to our customers," he continued. "The bank is merely a custodian of the money and must throw about it every possible safeguard."

Last night's broadcasting was a distinct innovation in the once-a-week lectures by prominent bankers from WCAP, in that a dialogue in two parts was carried on by the bankers named. The first dialogue was entitled, "Why Some People Can Not Borrow Money From the Bank," and the second, "Borrowing Money From the Bank." In both subjects the careful banker was impersonated by Mr. McQuade, and Mr. Riordon carried through the role of the customer seeking to borrow.

In the first discussion the audience heard an interesting analysis of the merchants financial statement resulting in the customer getting some timely advice on how to conduct his business, but being denied the privilege of becoming a borrower.

With five years intervening, the second part finds the same customer applying for a loan ten times the amount previously sought, and the discussion brought out the important things in which the customer had profited by his former interview, with his financial statement showing a satisfactory bank balance, some judicious investments in bonds, ample insurance on merchandise, good accounts receivable and a reasonable life insurance policy. On the showing Mr. Riordon, playing the borrower, was granted the loan, the dialogue closing with the banker saying, "This just shows how easy it is to do business with a bank if you do it on business principles."

Convention Group Named.

That the entertainment features of the eighth annual convention of the District Bankers association at Hot Springs, Va., in June, will be in capable hands became known yesterday with announcement by W. W. Spaid, chairman of the general convention committee, of the following entertainment committee:

E. J. McQuade, vice president Liberty National Bank, chairman; Fernand Petit, vice president Merchants Bank and Trust Co., vice chairman; Thomas W. Brahany, Thomas W. Brahany & Co.; M. F. Calnan, cashier Liberty National Bank; James C. Dulin, jr., assistant treasurer American Security & Trust Co.; Fred W. MacKenzie, vice president Chevy Chase Savings Bank; George O. Vass, vice president and cashier Riggs National Bank.

Bankers in New Quarters.

Glover & Flather, investment bankers, have moved to their new location at 1508 H street northwest, where the firm is occupying a suite of offices on the first floor. Albert J. Gore, real estate and insurance, has moved into the other first-floor suite, and the second floor is now being arranged for the use of Edward B. Smith & Co., investment bankers, who, in addition to their bond department, will operate a board room as members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Company Increases Stock.

Local investors were expressing interest yesterday in action of the United Light & Power Co. in filing an amendment to its charter with the Maryland State tax commission. The authorized capital stock of the company was increased from 2,000,000 to 7,000,000 shares without par value in the amendment. The authorized stock now consists of 500,000 shares class A preferred, 500,000 class B preferred, 3,500,000 shares of new class A common and 2,500,000 shares of new class B common. The company operates in Iowa, Delaware, Michigan, Tennessee and Indiana.

Credit Demands Increase.

Increased spring credit demands were made evident in the Richmond Federal Reserve statement for the last week in March, revealing an increase of $3,033,000 in total bills discounted by Washington and other member banks. Total rediscounts shown in the statement as of March 31 were $45,387,000, against $42,354,000 the week before. This is substantially above discounts during the corresponding period a year ago, when the total was $34,373,000. Bills bought in the open market totaled $10,445,000, against $10,513,000 the week before and $12,834,000 a year ago.

Total reserves of the Richmond institution declined $1,676,000 to $96,262,000. Note circulation was reduced $979,000 and member bank deposits $497,000 to $66,817,000.

In consequence of these variations the ratio of total reserves to deposit and note liabilities was 64.67 per cent against 66.26 per cent the previous week, and 76.52 per cent a year ago. The ratio for the system as a whole was 73.4 per cent.

WARDMAN USED CARS

"THE WASHINGTON PUBLIC EXPECTS NOT ONLY SOLIDITY AND PERMANENCY IN EVERY INSTITUTION OPERATING UNDER WARDMAN MANAGEMENT, BUT BUSINESS POLICIES THAT ARE BASED ON FAIR VALUATIONS IN ITS SALES PRODUCTS. THE WARDMAN MOTORS, INC., WILL BE NO EXCEPTION TO THIS RULE, PARTICULARLY AS IT APPLIES TO THE MERCHANDISING OF USED CARS."
(Signed) HARRY K. WARDMAN.

Every used car listed below has been taken in from the purchase of one of our New Cars, and the basis of appraisal has been as follows: "That the appraisal be a fair one; fair to the new car purchaser, but with the thought in mind that the ultimate purchaser is also a potential New Car prospect, and as such has the right to expect as much for his dollar in buying a used car as he would expect for the same amount invested in a New Car."
(Excerpts from Wardman Motor Sales Manual.)

GEORGETOWN GROUP SEEKING ADEQUATE PLAYGROUND SPACE

J. A. Oliver, Citizens' Head, Says Accommodations for Children Insufficient.

CLAIMS MONTROSE PARK LAND CAN NOT BE USED

Representative Norton's Report on That Area Is Called in Error.

A special effort is being made by the Georgetown Citizens association to obtain adequate playgrounds for Georgetown schools, J. A. Oliver, president of the association, declared yesterday.

The association, he said, has been striving to obtain more playground space for years, but with little progress. Conditions have now grown so bad, he declared, that something ought to be done immediately to give the children a place to play.

Curtis, Addison and Hyde schools, grouped together between Thirty-second and Thirty-third streets, have an attendance of 1,000 children, he said, but not enough playground space for one school of ordinary size.

The report to the House District committee by Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, that Jackson school, between Thirtieth and Thirty-first streets, did not need a playground, but that the children could play in Montrose park, across the street, is erroneous, Mr. Oliver said. There is no opportunity for play in the park, he said, and no provisions can be made for play. The park is also across a dangerous street, he declared.

Mr. Oliver said that property will have to be condemned for the group of schools. The association is endeavoring to have the space from Jackson school to Avon place and the space south of the school added to the playground.

An effort is also being made to have the property north of Corcoran school, in Twenty-eighth street between M and Olive streets, condemned and the space added to the Corcoran school playground, he said. Wormley school for colored children, in Prospect street between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, has no playground whatever, Mr. Oliver declared.

J. T. KING IS INDICTED ON PERJURY CHARGES

"sufficient figure," stating that while Mr. King bore a good reputation, being even "eminently thought of by his associates and people throughout the United States," he was in the habit of taking frequent trips to Europe.

Attorney Leahy retorted that there was no need of excessive bail, as his client had kept in close touch with Federal Attorney Buckner by weekly letters on his previous trips to Europe.

King, attired in a heavy overcoat and smiling, showed no nervousness on his appearance before Judge Knox. He received permission to withdraw his plea of not guilty at any time before or on April 12.

Tax Paid, Says King.

Before leaving the Federal building King had a consultation with his attorney and William J. Fallon. Neither King nor Mr. Leahy would make any statement beyond that made by the latter before Judge Knox to the effect that "the government has not lost a cent" and that "every penny which it is alleged the government might have lost was paid by Mr. King when his attention was called to the matter."

Mr. Buckner said after King's arraignment that the indictment would not end the American Metals securities transfer investigation, which would be continued with vigor. He also stated that Mr. Simpson's recent trip to Europe had no connection with King's indictment.

The special grand jury sworn in since Mr. Buckner took charge of the American Metals transfer investigation has been at work since early January. It was in January that Mr. Simpson appeared with the grand jury before Federal Judge Thomas D. Thacher and presented former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty for contempt of court for refusal to answer questions on the ground that his answers "might incriminate him."

Daugherty Made to Reply.

The questions were read in open court, and related to his possession of and failure to produce the original ledger sheets of his own account and that of his brother, Mel Daugherty, as well as that of the late Jess Smith, in the Midland National bank at Washington Court House, Ohio. Smith was named as co-conspirator in the true bill against Miller and the others indicted with him last October, but was not indicted, having died in the interim under circumstances which gave rise to reports of suicide.

On the presentation of the contempt charge against him former Attorney General Daugherty was ordered by Judge Thacher to answer the questions propounded to him. He was taken back to the grand jury room, where he answered them. Nothing could be learned as to the nature of his testimony.

Gaston Means Called

In the last two weeks Gaston B. Means, who is serving a sentence at Atlanta penitentiary for violation of the Volstead act, was before the grand jury several times. As late as today he was in the Federal building several hours, although no one saw him enter the jury room. In his former capacity as investigator for the Department of Justice, Means was well known to the Daughertys, Col. Miller and King, as well as to Jess Smith, whom he regarded as a personal friend.

John T. King has been prominent in Republican politics for years. In the preconvention campaign of 1919-20 he first managed the interests of Gen. Wood and then later became associated with the late Senator Boise Penrose in defeating Wood's aspirations and blocking the nomination of former Gov. Lowden of Illinois.

Receiver Is Asked For Lumber Concern

William C. Eisinger, 144 Quincy street northeast, filed suit yesterday against his uncle, Walter G. Eisinger, and the Eisinger Mill & Lumber Co., Inc., to have the equity court appoint a receiver for the lumber business.

The plaintiff is the son of Frank J. Eisinger, one of the firm of Eisinger Bros., who founded the lumber business. His uncle is president of the Eisinger Mill & Lumber Co., which succeeded the firm of Eisinger Bros., it is stated. Through Attorney Alfred D. Smith, the plaintiff alleges that the management of the lumber business by his uncle may result in the wrecking of the business unless the court intervenes.

MARINE ECCENTRIC, SAYS OFFICER AT FAGA TRIAL

Second Woman In Case Mentioned at Hearing of Accused Lieutenant.

IDENTITY NOT REVEALED

Alleged eccentricities of Lieut. William H. Faga, U. S. marine corps, facing serious charges, and mention of a second woman in the case, featured the court-martial of Faga at the navy yard yesterday.

Maj. Harold F. Wirgman, marine corps commandant at Annapolis, where the accused officer had been quartermaster, testified that the defendant drove a noisy car about the barracks at night, but later admitted that he had no fears as to his moral or mental fitness for his duties else he would have relieved him.

Mention of "a woman from Detroit" followed that of "the woman from Philadelphia" in yesterday's hearing, but her identity remained unrevealed, objection of Lucian H. Vandoren, civilian counsel for Lieut. Faga, being sustained when Maj. Wirgman was asked to tell what he knew of her in relation to the accused officer. Attorney Vandoren held that the question was irrelevant.

War strain may be a part of the defense program it was indicated by interrogation as to whether Faga's reported peculiarity might not result from his A. E. F. service, in which he was twice wounded and twice gassed.

Admission into the evidence of records showing overdrawn accounts at the Annapolis Banking & Trust Co., presented during the testimony of Frank H. Thompson, bank treasurer, was a point for the prosecution, Mr. Thompson testifying that Lieut. Faga had made no attempt to make up overdrafts.

A letter from Lieut. Faga to the bank, written while he was under arrest, stating that the overdrafts were unintentional, and that he expected an unnamed person to deposit $450 in his checking account was later introduced.

The court decided yesterday to adjourn to Philadelphia, but will continue hearings here until all local testimony is disposed of.

SELLING BY CANVASS IS CALLED EXPENSIVE

Conclusion Reached by Harvard Business Review, Following Investigation.

As the result of an actual investigation to determine whether a well-known manufacturer should change from the retailer to the canvasser method of distribution, the Harvard Business Review, published for the graduate school of business administration at Harvard university, says:

"House-to-house selling is not a means of lowering distribution costs. The inherent difficulties in house-to-house selling make the task of securing, training and retaining salesmen a very perplexing problem, and the supervision of a large and scattered force of comparatively low-grade salesmen considerably increases expenses.

"Because salesmen for house-to-house canvassing are hard to secure, companies using this method of selling must offer relatively high rates of commission on all sales.

"When a manufacturer assumes the function of the retailer his costs must also be assumed. Consequently the cost of selling directly to the consumer by a canvassing method does not result in lowering the expenses of distribution."

Merchandise comparable in quality to that offered by canvassers and equal or lower in price is invariably carried by retail stores.

ALL UNION BUILDERS MAY STRIKE TO AID STEAM SHOVEL MEN

50 Per Cent of Workers Win an Increase, Business Agent Declares.

CONTRACTORS HIRING NONUNION ENGINEERS

Strike-Breakers Are Reported Coming to the City in Large Numbers.

A threatened strike of all union builders in Washington was the latest development last night in the walkout Wednesday of members of the Steam Shovel and Hoisting Engineers union.

Frank J. Nichols, business agent of the union, announced that he was backed by unions of the other building trades in his demand for a $12 daily wage for the excavators and hoisters, and that the threat would be carried out if the contractors did not cease hiring nonunion labor to take the place of the strikers.

More than 50 per cent of the workers have received an advance in wages as they demanded, Mr. Nichols said. He predicted that the contractors would give in to the strikers' demands, which were "only just."

Sees Loss to Contractors.

Informed that nonunion workers were coming to Washington on every train to take the place of the strikers, Mr. Nichols said that the contractors would lose money by hiring incompetent workers. "They won't be able to stand it much longer," he said.

Though the strikers are adamant, the contractors are just as strong in their determination not to meet the new wage scale asked. Six steam shovels operated by the Henry Boyle Robertson Co., constructing the Washington building, at Fifteenth street and New York avenue, and other excavating work in the city, were completely manned yesterday, though three of the engines were idle Wednesday. The foreman on the work declared that he was having no trouble finding men to take the places of the strikers and had sent extra applicants to other contractors.

Taxi Driver Held For Observation

Frank R. Hopkins, taxi driver, of 414 Second street northwest, who was arrested Thursday and charged with assault and battery on his 5-year-old daughter, Louise, was sent to Gallinger hospital for mental observation yesterday by Judge McMahon in police court. According to the police, Hopkins beat the child because he was awakened by her cries for her mother.

Mrs. Hopkins appeared in court, but she collapsed on the witness stand. Miss Estelle Foster, probation officer, reported that Hopkins was shell shocked during the war, and asked that he be committed for observation. Louise took the stand and explained how her father came to strike her. Her face still bore the marks of the blows. Judge McMahon continued the case until April 13.

Macready Describes Flight Photography

Reducing air pressure is the most formidable element the aviator has to combat in attempting record-breaking altitudinal flights, according to Lieut. John A. Macready, who last night addressed the National Geographic society on his 20,000-mile picture-taking flight over the United States, in company with Capt. A. W. Stevens.

Lack of oxygen and frigid temperature are the other elements that make altitudinal flying difficult, Lieut. Macready declared. The pictures over most national parks were made in less than two months, whereas, according to Lieut. Macready, it would have taken more than a year to make the pictures any other way.

$800 Bid for 75,000 Patent Models

Antique and curio merchants look with disdain on the more than 75,000 patent models at the census bureau, offering only $800 when they were put up for sale at auction yesterday. The bid was considered too low, so they will remain in the custody of the government until more money can be obtained for them.

Many models antedated 1885. The models were put up for sale after the inventors and their heirs, the United States museum, the bureau of efficiency and the District of Columbia national guard had selected the articles they wanted.

Thieves cut a panel from the rear basement door of his store, Deale reported, and escaped with 22 silk shirts, valued at $110, and other accessories necessary to complete a gentleman's Easter wardrobe.

SENATE COMMITTEE RULING WILL CAUSE DELAY ON BELT LINE

Will Refuse to Consider the Plan Until Commerce Board Approves.

ACTION BEFORE END OF SESSION DOUBTFUL

Local and Maryland People Object to Industrial District in Capital.

The Loughborough belt-line project will be indefinitely delayed if not permanently prevented as the result of action by the Senate commerce committee yesterday.

The committee adopted a policy which was announced in the Senate by Senator Bingham, chairman of the committee, that in the future no railway bridge applications will be considered unless the railway, itself, has first been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

While the policy of the committee is to apply to all such projects, it hits particularly at this time the proposed belt line which had been vigorously opposed by local civic interests. It means that the promoters of the belt line must first impress the Interstate Commerce Commission with the necessity of their undertaking.

Delay Is Foreseen.

It is not conceivable that they can get the commission's approval in time to have the present session of Congress act upon the bridge application, and should they get its approval at a later date they will still be confronted with the opposition in Congress.

The whole project is considered as turning on permission to erect the bridge across the Potomac, by which it is planned to stretch a belt line from Virginia, just below Potomac yards, around the edge of this city, to Maryland. Refrigerating plants and switching facilities to handle freight passing between the South and North would be established.

It was because of this industrial aspect that local interests and Maryland residents of the communities to be affected objected to the project. Maryland residents contended that it would depreciate the value of their property, while local interests saw in it a menace to the park system and the city's appearance in general.

The House passed a bill authorizing erection of the bridge several weeks ago, but Representative Zihlman, of Maryland, recently succeeded in having it recalled from the Senate and placed on the House table.

The attitude of the Senate commerce committee, Senator Bingham explained, is that the promoters of such projects should not "put the cart before the horse." There is nothing before the committee, he said, to show that the Interstate Commerce Commission will approve the belt line. Until that commission acts, he sees no reason why the committee should be called upon to approve a bridge or integral part of the project.

Alleged Pocketbook Trickster Is Held

Accused of having swindeled three colored women out of $1,700 within the last six months, by employing the "filled pocketbook" trick, Capris Mann, 25 years old, colored, of New York, was taken into custody last night by Detectives Paul Jones and John T. Jackson, and is being held while other cases are investigated.

The women identified Mann as the man who tricked them. Sylvia Jones, 1324 Thirteenth street northwest, lost $1,000, which she said she had saved for the last 30 years. Mary King, 1410 Church street northwest, lost $500, and Callie Morgan, 3915 Military road northwest, was tricked out of $200, she said.

The cars were taken, police say, in three successive nights last week, and all three were recovered. Milstead's automobile, police aver, was stripped.
